

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Those of us who enjoy a drink and those who don't felt more than a twinge of sympathy with John Tisdalle, the gallant little man from Saanich, when he burst forth with a ringing denunciation of liquor behind the wheel.

"I am fed up," he cried, "with people who cherish human life so little that they think of their drink first and their driving second. Can you replace a human life with a bottle of Scotch?"

No doubt George Gregory, the conscientious Liberal member for Victoria, felt much the same as Mr. Tisdalle. But he could not resist the temptation to take a crack at Highways Minister Gagliardi who does not drink but sometimes displays a taste for speed.

"What about testing curves?" asked Mr. Gregory, alluding to the time Mr. Gagliardi made that his excuse for speeding on a provincial highway.

"I don't mind a fellow testing curves as long as he is sober," retorted Mr. Tisdalle, evoking a thunder of applause from the government benches and a wise, Pharaoh-like smile from Mr. Gagliardi.

And this brought us to the subject of vodka—the fiery Russian brew.

"It would be the worst thing for this province if vodka became a national drink," declared Mr. Tisdalle. "I am sure the Russians would like to export it to us so they could muddle the brains of the opposition." Then, reverting to a more popular beverage, he said: "Whisky at the wheel is no better than a loose nut." (Loud laughter.)

Mr. Tisdalle had a glass of milk on his desk and he raised it in a toast to the Island dairy farmers who staged a demonstration in the legislature Monday.

He pleaded for a sympathetic attitude towards the farmers in their protest against the lower price differential paid to them.

"They did us no harm," he said. "I felt as much at home with them in this house as if they were my own family. Let's try and see things from their point of view."

When members of the Government are speaking, Premier Bennett looks around him with a challenging look that seems to say: "How can you doubt what these fine men—my boys—are telling you?"

And when he swivels his chair round to talk to immediate neighbors in the cabinet he wears the magnanimous expression of a father talking to his favorite sons.

To be truthful, there is no one quite like him in the British Commonwealth... or anywhere else.

By contrast with last Monday's carnival hostilities—the cow on the steps and angry farmers shouting in the lobby—the latter part of Wednesday's proceedings had the atmosphere of an afternoon in the card room of the Union Club.

Cedric Cox, the clear-spoken CCF member from Burnaby, twitted the government over its propaganda in the by-election which gave him the seat formerly held by his father-in-law, the late Ernest Winch.

"They had a Social Credit candidate on the air or on TV every day," he said. "Where does the money come from?" "Where does it come from?" quipped Premier Bennett, his smile bellying the politician's thrust.

"From the people," answered CCF leader Bob Strachan, but the Premier didn't look convinced.

Earlier, the legislature heard defence and criticism of its correctional institutes.

Elmore Philpott Again Nominated

VANCOUVER (CP)—Elmore Philpott, Vancouver newspaper columnist and formerly Liberal member of parliament for Vancouver South, was nominated again for that constituency Wednesday night at an uncontested convention.

He was defeated last June by Conservative Ernie Broome after serving one term in the Commons.

every target of importance in the Soviet Union.

"The possession by Russia of rockets of equal range will not, for reasons of geography, afford her any corresponding strategic advantage. It would be of no use to her to attack Western Europe unless she could simultaneously knock out the vital strategic U.S. air bases."

"She could at present have no reasonable hope of achieving this with manned bombers and it will take her several years to complete the development of an accurate intercontinental rocket and produce it in sufficient numbers."

Even when the Soviet Union had produced sufficient numbers of intercontinental missiles there could be for her "no certainty of the success of an attack" by such weapons on the far-flung targets of the West.

The while paper also said: "The one thing which might conceivably tempt the Soviet Union to military adventure would be the erroneous belief that the West, if attacked, would flinch from using its nuclear power."

"The West relies for its defence primarily upon the deterrent effect of its vast stockpile of nuclear weapons and its capacity to deliver them. The democratic Western nations will never start a war against Russia."

"But it must be well understood that if Russia were to launch a major attack on them, even with conventional forces only, they would have to hit back with strategic nuclear weapons."

"The strategy of NATO is based on the frank recognition that a full-scale Soviet attack could not be repelled without resort to a massive nuclear bombardment of the sources of power in Russia."

"In that event the role of the allied defence forces in Europe would be to hold the front for the time needed to allow the effects of the nuclear counter-offensive to make themselves felt."

"So long as the effectiveness of the nuclear deterrent is maintained, it is probable that global war can be averted."

dent of the firm with an office in Toronto.

The testimony was entered under repeated objections by defence counsel. Prosecutor Stewart McMorran at one point interjected:

"Everyone's struggling to keep this out."

Magistrate Oscar Orr told defence counsel that he would have the testimony struck out if the record if it was not linked up to the charge. But he pointed out Mr. Munro was mentioned in the charge.

First witness this morning F. E. Frederiksen, president of Tahsis Ltd., identified 18 cheques of $2,000 each as payment of monthly retainers by his company to C. D. Schultz Ltd. for work connected with forest management licences.

Prosecutor McMorran indicated at the start of today's session that he believed Mr. Sommers was required under the law to attend the preliminary hearing. Mr. Sommers Wednesday was excused so he could attend the current session of the Legislature. Magistrate Orr said he would hear arguments later today on the question.

TRADE PARLEY 'NEW CONCEPT', SAYS DREW

LONDON (CP)—George Drew, Canadian high commissioner, said today that the Commonwealth economic conference expected to be held in Canada next September "offers a great opportunity for a new concept of Commonwealth relations."

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Great Britain, Drew said the conference might aid not only Commonwealth trade but also the development and sharing of "our many skills and resources."

"This could be the beginning of a completely new Commonwealth concept which would bring unprecedented prosperity, happiness and security to all its members," he added.

'Whiteout' Hits Fuchs' Polar Trek

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (Reuters)—A dreaded Antarctic "whiteout," where the polar skies whiten to merge with the snowbound horizon and destroy all sense of direction, today pinned the British trans-polar expedition 600 miles from its goal.

Leader Vivian Fuchs radioed today that the expedition now has reached "midway depot," a camp half way between the pole and the coast of the white continent. This point is 105 miles from the last main base, Depot 700.

The expedition now has 600 miles more to cover in its effort to make the first overland crossing of the Antarctic continent, a distance of 2,100 miles.

The expedition is racing against time in an effort to beat the worst of the Antarctic winter which begins about the end of this month.

Agriculture Aid Planned —Harkness

REGINA (CP)—Agriculture Minister Douglas Harkness said Wednesday night the Conservative government hopes to put forward within the next year an agricultural program which would include an improved credit system for farmers, a crop insurance program, and a soil and water conservation program part of which would include building of the South Saskatchewan River dam.

Mr. Harkness addressed a Conservative nominating convention which chose Ken More as candidate for Regina City in the March 31 federal election.

MLA CRITICIZED
VANCOUVER—Jim Plaskett, executive secretary of the Vancouver traffic and safety council, Wednesday criticized Mrs. Lois Haggen, CCF-MLA for Grand Forks-Greenwood as having an "irresponsible attitude."

The safety official jumped to the defence of high school driver-training programs after Mrs. Haggen's complaint in the legislature that they are cluttering up the curriculum.

French Withdrawal Key to Peace Parley

TUNIS (AP)—President Habib Bourguiba said today that he would personally lead the Tunisian people in a guerrilla war if necessary to resist France's maintaining of troops on Tunisian soil.

The Tunisian president, in a radio address, warned French authorities that any armed effort to break out of their blockaded bases in Tunisia would be met by force.

Bourguiba added, however, that he did not despair of seeing "wisdom gain control" of the French side. He said he still wanted to negotiate with France, but only after the evacuation of the 15,000 French troops now in Tunisia.

He announced that if France accepts United States mediation, Tunisia will withdraw her complaint to the United Nations Security Council over the French bombing of a Tunisian village last Saturday.

Bourguiba made his speech while tension mounted throughout his country and the French reported increasing minor incidents involving French troops, bases and civilians.

France had warned the Tunisians through diplomatic channels earlier today that further grave incidents might arise as a result of Tunisian refusal to allow French forces to supply their garrisons.

Pineau to Speak on Crisis

The warning was contained in an official note which charge d'affaires Jean-Pierre Benard delivered to President Habib Bourguiba's chief minister Rabi Ladgham, here this morning.

At the same time it was announced by the foreign ministry in Paris that Foreign Minister Christian Pineau will speak on the Tunisian crisis in the National Assembly this afternoon. Although the contents of the French note were not immediately disclosed, it was learned from reliable French sources that the charge d'affaires drew the Tunisian government's attention to the gravity of the situation caused by the blocking of French troops in their posts.

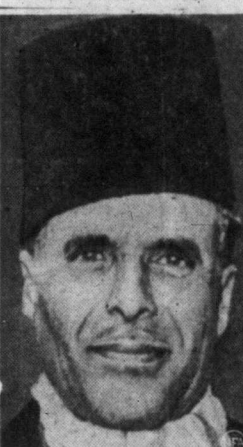

Problems of supply and evacuation of the sick would arise, it was pointed out, and these could be source of grave incidents. Benard assured the Tunisians that the French would do all they could to avoid such incidents but, if they occurred, the sole responsibility would lie with the Tunisians themselves.

The charge d'affaires also protested against the forced evacuation by the Tunisians of French farmers and their families from the Algerian frontier region. The French embassy here indicated some 400 had thus far been expelled. They are being cared for by the embassy.

Bourguiba ordered the blockade of the French garrisons as part of his campaign to force the French out of his country in retaliation for the French bombing last Saturday of the Tunisian village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef.

Slitting the Purse

PARLIAMENT, AS MR. DIEFENBAKER has often reminded us, controls the government under our system, derived from Britain.

The chief weapon of Parliament's control is the public purse. If Parliament loses control of the purse it effectively loses control of the government. Any government which tries to repeal Parliament's control of the purse is committing the final assault on the parliamentary system. And this is exactly what the Diefenbaker Government is now doing.

As will be clear in a moment, the Diefenbaker Government — elected mainly as the champion of Parliament — has undertaken to repeal the constitutional practice of ninety years since Confederation in order to free itself of parliamentary interference.

Beside this latest assault on Parliament the pipeline closure, however objectionable, shrinks into insignificance. For at least in that case a majority of Parliament decided to enforce closure. In the present case the majority of Parliament, and the minorities, are barred from any effective discussion of the nation's expenditures whatever.

Perhaps because it is complex, perhaps because a vital issue has been lost in the flood of the Government's histrionics at the hour of dissolution, the latest and gravest assault on Parliament has been overlooked, so far. Doubtless, however, the public will hear about it before the election campaign is finished.

The Government's strategy began last August when Parliament was not sitting. At that time it needed $2,428,000 to take care of certain immigrant refugees, a perfectly proper purpose.

In strict conformity with the law (the Financial Administration Act) the Government sought a Governor-General's warrant for the necessary funds. It was granted, of course, and the money spent.

No one in Parliament objected to that, but the story was only beginning.

Since the nation's first days governments have frequently secured Governor's warrants for emergency expenditures when Parliament had been dissolved or was not sitting. In every case, however (save one which will be discussed later), the government asked Parliament to approve these expenditures as soon as it met again. Each item of expenditure was laid before Parliament with the other estimates so that it could be thoroughly debated. The power of the purse was never questioned.

It is true that the government is not bound by law to do this. The law requires only that the Governor's warrants be published in the Canada Gazette and tabled in Parliament within fifteen days of its opening.

But every former government has considered this arrangement quite inadequate and has included the special expenditures in its estimates to provide a full chance of debate. No one had ever dreamed, until February 1 last, that the practice would be violated.

On that day it was violated and the violation will continue, apparently, as long as Mr. Diefenbaker is in office.

The issue arose when Mr.

Knowles, of the CCF, asked Mr. Davie Fulton, minister of justice, why the Governor's warrants of August had not been placed in the estimates. Mr. Fulton tried to have Mr. Knowles' question ruled out of order (for it was obviously painful to the Government) and, this form of closure failing, Mr. Fulton was compelled to make an historic announcement.

He said that the Government had decided to abandon the constitutional practice of the past and, instead, stick to the strict letter of the law. Henceforth Governor's warrants would be merely tabled in Parliament.

At first sight this may appear to be no serious infringement of Parliament's rights. In fact it is the most serious kind of infringement.

When any item is included in the estimates it can be debated without limit. A private member can speak for only thirty minutes at a time but in estimates committee he can speak as often as he pleases. The power of the purse is absolutely unrestricted.

When a Governor's warrant is merely tabled, however, it is impossible for Parliament to debate it effectively. The matter can be raised only by a private member's resolution and no such resolution can ever be passed if the government does not want it passed. The usual practice is to "talk out" all such embarrassing resolutions and they seldom come to a vote. That is what will happen to any attempt to question the Governor's warrants.

The warrants of last summer were for small amounts. Between the dissolution of the last Parliament and the first session of the new Parliament the Diefenbaker Government must finance entirely on warrants since it refused to introduce a budget, and let the people know the state of their own fiscal affairs, before they went to the polls.

By Governor's warrants, which Parliament will never be allowed to debate later on, the Government will spend about a billion dollars of our money. Parliament has been robbed of control over about a fifth of the annual purse.

The only previous violation of this sort occurred in 1926. Mr. Arthur Meighen's brief Government of that summer spent some $48 millions by Governor's warrants. The King Government, returning to office on September 25, spent $31 millions in the same way.

As soon as Parliament met Mr. King submitted his warrants to it in the usual way. He refused to submit those of Mr. Meighen because he regarded the Meighen Government as unconstitutional and, in any case, could take no responsibility for its actions.

It is clear, therefore, that Mr. Diefenbaker has decided on a course of parliamentary erosion without any precedent in our history — this from the statesman who pretends to be the supreme champion of Parliament.

A Toryism which makes the record of Meighen and Bennett appear wildly liberal, which would appal Macdonald and should alarm every living Canadian is now in the saddle at Ottawa. But a mystery remains: Why is Mr. Diefenbaker afraid to submit his expenditures to the people?

A Case for the UNEF

FRENCH BOMBING OF A TUNISIAN border village has brought the Algerian fighting out of the domestic category into the international field. Regardless of whether the Algerian insurgents were using the Tunisian village or its environs as a base for anti-aircraft forces, which would make it a legitimate military target as the French charge, the attack on the community was a political error of first magnitude.

It seriously embarrasses France's allies and makes it almost impossible for them to continue support, it places the whole crisis on an international plane where the communist world can demand a voice in settlement, it alienates the Tunisian leader who heretofore has been favorably disposed to the French and the West, and it further alienates the Arab world whose relations with the West are already critical.

On the military side, it makes a danger zone of the Algerian-Tunisian border, which already has been the scene of reprisals.

On the latter score, there is one move that would quickly restore quiet to the border, prevent a recurrence of military "errors" or adventures, and at the same time give a great boost in prestige and stature to a United Nations' venture of vast importance and potential.

Elements of the United Nations Emergency Force should be deployed along the line as soon as possible to prevent the latest problem from developing into a threat to world peace.

Not only could the force do a competent and effective job, as it has on the Egyptian-Israeli border, but its employment would entail further recognition of the principle of the UNEF and help to establish it as the proper and accepted agency to be used in all such emergency situations.

The Grand Design

EVERYONE read, last week, Premier Bennett's budget figures but few, I imagine, understood the grand design behind them. That is unfortunate and quite unfair to Mr. Bennett. In this place — the last place you would expect — I propose to explain that design as I understand it from a careful reading of the budget speech and certain discreet inquiries in the proper quarters.

Some critics of the Provincial Government seem to think that in financial affairs it doesn't know what it is doing. On the contrary, it knows exactly what it is doing and what it is doing and what it is doing.

His basic purpose is to expand, on a vast scale, the capital investments of government in many fields — the P.G.E., electricity, roads, bridges, schools. The money to provide these things cannot all be raised out of current taxes, though some great capital works are being financed that way. It must be borrowed.

It cannot be borrowed unless the credit of the province is sound. No investor will buy our bonds in sufficient quantities unless he is sure that the interest and principal will be paid on the nail.

Mr. Bennett's first objective, therefore, was to fortify the government's credit and, to do so, he began to reduce the direct provincial debt.

This he has done, with extraordinary determination, year after year despite the temptation to reduce taxes instead. By 1960, unless things go wrong, there will be no direct provincial debt. The last surviving debenture no doubt will be publicly burned at a great Social Credit ceremonial just before an election.

WHEN investors see the direct debt disappearing they are both happy and sad — happy to see that their money is being returned to them and sad because they have no way of investing it again in British Columbia securities.

Mr. Bennett has fixed that, by offering them the chance to re-invest in much larger volume. They soon will be unable to buy any government bond but they can buy the bonds of the P.G.E., the Power Commission, the toll bridge authority, local school boards and so on, all of them guaranteed by the government.

So far investors have put $360 millions into these agencies of the government and the result is what Mr. Bennett planned from the beginning. In British Columbia we are building various things all over the place in a works program larger, indeed, than the emergency program recently announced by Mr. Diefenbaker for the whole nation.

THIS is only the beginning. Mr. Bennett is proud of the expenditures already launched but intends to expand them greatly in the next few years. Before long, I dare say, he will have borrowed a billion dollars through his agencies and created still larger works of all sorts. So far the grand design is quite simple — the repayment of direct debt to encourage the investor, the accumulation of indirect debt to finance works. But at this point Mr. Bennett's reasoning becomes obscure, to me at least.

He admits that any money borrowed by his Government is debt. He denies that money borrowed by his agencies and guaranteed by his Government is debt. It is not debt, he says, because it finances itself.

FOR example, a million dollars let us say, is borrowed for a toll bridge. The government does not have to pay the interest or repay the principal. They are paid by tolls collected from the users of the bridge. The P.G.E. (Mr. Bennett hopes) will pay for itself in the same way. So will the electrical works of the Power Commission. The local school boards and taxpayers will carry the school loans.

Nevertheless, with respect to Mr. Bennett, these debts are still debts no matter how they are carried or described. The people of British Columbia, through railway rates, electrical bills, bridge tolls or local school taxes must pay the interest on all this money and repay the principal. On the scale of borrowing proposed by Mr. Bennett these costs must be very heavy.

Mr. Bennett presumably will reply that they will be quite painless and, in fact, purely fictitious. This may prove true and it may not, depending on circumstances.

TO take another simple instance, if a power plant in a community creates new industries there and actually increases the community's wealth by the amount of the investment then, to be sure, no extra burden is placed on the people.

The same is true of the P.G.E. or the toll bridges. It is not true, however, of schools which, though badly needed, cannot of themselves create any new wealth of a tangible sort whatever, though the intangible future wealth of knowledge, a social asset, may be great.

It will be seen that the grand design depends for its stability on Mr. Bennett's assumption that British Columbia will continue to grow at a rapid rate in population, industry and wealth — so fast in wealth that the cost of his works and his borrowed money can be borne with ease.

IF his assumption is correct as to the rate of growth — and the rate is the whole question — then the grand design, however grand, will be manageable. But if the ultimate growth of British Columbia almost certainly will be great no one can be sure about the rate meanwhile.

In any economy there are temporary ups and downs, among them the down which began last fall. In a prolonged down, quite outside any provincial government's control, the grand design might become, for a time anyway, very onerous indeed, since the people must pay its cost of interest and principal no matter how they pay it or through what channel and no matter whether they are prosperous or not.

On this score Mr. Bennett feels no doubts. He has conceived his design and is pushing it ahead with a furious and dedicated purpose. Oddly enough, though, this master of articulation has been unable so far to explain that purpose clearly to the public and he has unnecessarily confused it by denying that debt is debt.

THINGS will be clearer in the magic year of 1960 when the last direct debt is extinguished and the government is relieved of $30 millions annually in interest and sinking fund charges. Then, perhaps, Mr. Bennett will reduce taxes on the people who are carrying his indirect debt.

'Illustrious Neighbor'

In Maclean's Magazine (Feb. 1) a local religious writer, named C. M. Cadwallader, had a letter in which he vented his unholy venom upon one of Canada's most distinguished citizens, the highly intelligent Dr. Brock Chisholm.

Closing his diatribe, Cadwallader saw fit to say — "Brock Chisholm is a definite menace to Canada."

Any effort to penetrate the mind of the gullible is generally futile, but I would like to inform Mr. Cadwallader that apart from a few fanatics, the great majority of intelligent citizens of Victoria are delighted to know that Dr. Brock Chisholm now lives close enough to be called "our illustrious neighbor."

Islands' 'Gerrymander'

On the matter of redistribution of seats in the Legislature, may I state, that I have been interested for some time in the question of how membership in the Legislature should be apportioned.

The Islands are an example of improper and unjust representation.

Far from being a "pocket borough," such as Oak Bay, they are a mere appendage to the larger community of Nanaimo.

Until 1938 the historic constituency of the Islands was represented in the Legislature by its own member. These members, included some very distinguished gentlemen, such as the late T. W.

Patterson ex-lieut-governor; Mr. Justice A. E. McPhillips, father of the member sitting for Victoria in the recently dissolved House of Commons; General W. W. Foster; Colonel C. W. Peck V.C.; M. B. Jackson K.C.; and others now deceased. This riding was "gerrymandered" in 1938, for the simple reason that Colonel McGregor MacIntosh was the Conservative member. It was joined to Nanaimo, which ensured the election of a Liberal member, Mr. George Pearson, and to eliminate one Conservative member in the House.

Every member elected for Nanaimo-Islands, including Mr. Pearson, a man of high principles, deplored the device, as did his successors, Dr. Giovando, who was elected as a Conservative, and I believe, the Honorable Mr. Westwood, a member of the present Government.

All these estimable gentlemen recognized that the Islands should not have been included with Nanaimo, which has a population and special interests entitling it to separate representation as have also the Gulf Islands.

When this bare-faced "gerrymander" took place there was one Liberal member, who had a twinge of conscience, the Honorable H. G. Perry, later Speaker of the House.

There must be many areas throughout the Province which for one reason or another require special and judicial consideration.

Say It With Music

In observing the general trends followed by most local centennial celebration committees, there seems to be an overall failure to grasp the idea or stimulate public pride in the fact that we are supposed to be, primarily, celebrating the anniversary of a significant historical event and in this connection, especially honoring our pioneers who laid the foundations on which our magnificent progress has been built.

Highly creditable efforts have been made to re-tell the story and emphasize the highlights of achievement and up-building of the province in pageant and drama but there seems to be a lack of public appreciation of the anniversary and its historical significance. Maybe, if we had a few popular songs, or ballads, which would quaintly express simple ideas, with a touch of wistful humour, set to catchy, lilting melodies, native in origin of inspiration, we might thereby express the definite quality of our own provincial individuality. The following lyrics illustrate my point:

THE BIRTHDAY OF B.C.

In olden times, James Douglas wrote a letter to the Queen.
(and) He told her that this country was the greatest ever seen.
But it needed government.
Her Majesty at once replied: "Now this is our decree.
Assume command of Our Domains and found a Colony Named: British Columbia."
Then, in Fort Langley, Douglas read the Royal Proclamation
And thus, B.C. that day became established in the nation,
And had a government.
The "Beaver's" guns fired a grand salute.
The flag flew overhead;
The people cheered when first they heard that proclamation read,
In British Columbia.

CHORUS:

So here we are, in British Columbia
Where we always will remember
That nineteenth of November:
The Birthday of B.C.
From Beechey Head to Cassiar;
From Rockies to the sea,
We'll share with all the land we love

PIONEERS

When oft' we think of Pioneers
Who made this Province great,
By steadfast courage, through the years
Since eighteen-fifty-eight:
O then our hearts are filled with pride
And honour we bestow on all those Pioneers who lived
A hundred years ago.

CHORUS:

O those Pioneers who gave us
British Columbia!
Great their names shall be for evermore.
In Canada
O those valiant men! We praise them
And now we congregate
To honour all our Pioneers,
Since eighteen-fifty-eight
Hi... Yuh!
Pay tribute now to men who toiled,
From dawn to set of sun,
To found the cities, till the soil
Of Province then begun.
Their deeds throughout a hundred years,
Today commemorate
And ne'er forget our Pioneers
Of eighteen-fifty-eight
Hi... Yuh!

Music scores especially prepared for these two songs are available should anyone be interested in judging the complete nature of their public appeal. Let's have some fun!

FROM WASHINGTON By WALTER LIPPMANN

Turning Point in Africa

IT is not clear whether the bombing of the Tunisian town of Sakiet-Sidi-Youssef was authorized from Paris or was done on orders from military headquarters in Algeria. If it was a local action, the bombing, which resulted in a massacre of civilians, can be disavowed and reparations offered.

But if Paris accepts responsibility, the event marks a turning point in the international relationships of the Algerian war. For while it is being argued that the bombing was carried out under the doctrine of "hot pursuit" to silence an anti-aircraft battery in Tunisia which had fired across the frontier at a French plane in Algeria — it is hard to reconcile this with the fact that planes attacked the market place of the town, machine-gunning and bombing so many men, women and children who could not possibly have had anything to do with the anti-aircraft battery.

It can hardly be denied that this was not an act of hot pursuit. It was a reprisal to terrorize the Tunisian population and deter them from aiding and encouraging the Algerian rebels.

This will have long consequences. For it goes to show that the Algerian war is not an internal affair of France — Algeria being juridically a part of France — but an international affair which it is impossible to isolate and to ignore.

It is clearly impossible for the United States to ignore it, and to adhere to the position that the Algerian struggle is purely French business, let us say, a riot in Bordeaux or Marseilles.

The United States is involved not only because American planes, intended for the collective defence of Western Europe, were used. The United States is involved because the whole of North Africa, with which we are greatly concerned, is threatened.

If there is to develop out of the conflict on the Algerian border something like a state of war with Tunisia, it will be impossible for the United States to remain disengaged and neutral. It cannot, on the one hand, supply the French government with arms under NATO, with foreign exchange under the credit agreements, and on the other hand maintain that the war in North Africa is none of our business.

Spreading War

The war in North Africa has reached a point where it has spread beyond the limits of Algeria, not only into Tunisia and Morocco but on to the high seas as well. Despite the official promises that the Algerian war was in its last phase, the prospect is that there is in sight no end to that war.

It is the kind of war which modern armies are never able to win by military actions. It is the kind of war which can be ended only by political negotiations. The United States will not now be able for long to avoid the commitment to promote a political settlement in Algeria.

America's commitments in NATO and vital interests in the peace and friendliness of North Africa make it impossible for the U.S. to follow a policy of political neutrality and abstention, coupled with large military and financial assistance to France.

If the war spreads, as it has spread in the bombing of the Tunisian town, we shall find ourselves entangled and helpless. We are compelled, therefore, to move from the policy of neutrality and abstention to a positive policy to promote a settlement.

Independent Minds

I CAN'T SAY I jump for joy when I read articles about "subliminal stimulation" and a possible scientific breakthrough in thought control.

In fact, my spirits sink to zero because I am not one of those happy souls who contend that North Americans have independent minds capable of resisting propaganda.

In my opinion, North Americans are increasingly a bunch of pushovers where propaganda is concerned.

We're pushovers because we're so sold on security, on a high standard of living, on joining the group and fitting into the organization and being socially adjusted, that we're beginning to lose our moral and intellectual stamina. (Boy! I hope that makes a few people mad enough to think!)

We're so obsessed by speed and size, so busy struggling to maintain our high standard of living and keep up with the Joneses, that a lot of us don't have adequate time to think.

It may be the peevishness of middle-age, but it seems to me that, nowadays, too many people lack independence of spirit, self-reliance, and integrity.

We're horribly open to suggestion. And, if you don't believe that, just take time to consider how little resistance we have to advertising.

It was the Davy Crockett craze that really opened my eyes to this one. It was short-lived and it's over, but do you remember the frenzy of it while it lasted? Remember all those silly little coonskin caps that had never seen a coon? Remember the foolish indulgent parents who rushed to buy DC outfits for their spoiled and clamorous young? Remember that dreadful song, "It's up to you to do what Davy Crockett says?"

Admittedly, Davy Crockett was a tiny incident and aimed chiefly at the very young. But the adults smiled and went along with it, and thought that it was "cute."

It was far from cute. It was a horrible example of sheep-like, follow-my-leader minds, and of the power of mass media over North American social mores.

In the more adult field, look at all the spineless people who are perpetually in debt because they haven't the courage to do without something they can't afford.

If we're so weak that we can't resist appeals to acquire material goods, we're not likely to resist ideas that are subtly presented to the mind.

Well, what makes a tough, independent mind?

Some of our finest men and women on this continent came from the Maritimes and from the New England States. And last, but not least, from Scotland.

What made them tough, physically and intellectually? Was it something in their education and their early training?

Do you, among the under-fifties, find the independent determined minds and characters that we so often find among the preceding generations?

Do you not find that many of the teachers who are retiring, or are just retired, have far more vivid personalities than their softer-spoken juniors?

I don't know the answers to any of these questions. If you know them, do tell me. Because I have the horrid feeling that, intellectually and physically, we're getting just a little flabby.

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

I just received a letter from a lovely woman who reminds me that retarded children are often much happier in a special school than when they are kept at home. At home when they try to play with other children of their own age they are unhappy because they just cannot compete on equal terms. The retarded child of a friend of mine, when he was 10 or 12, used to be unhappy because his brothers and their friends wouldn't let him play baseball with them. His muscles did not co-ordinate in such a way that he could play well any game in which agility and speed were needed. Finally, his father sent him to a school for retarded boys, and there the lad was happy; at last he was among fellows who would play with him and with whom he could compete. Also, no one was expecting of him in the schoolroom and one playground more than he could possibly accomplish.

Many parents hate to send a retarded child away to school, partly because they worry about what the neighbors will say. Those who know psychoanalytic patter may say they rejected him. Actually, I have always maintained that in this world it is foolish to worry much about what the neighbors will say; we should all do what we think is best and right. Only the parents and the brothers and sisters of a retarded child know how serious a problem he (or she) is in the home. Sometimes the handicapped child is taking so much of his mother's time that she cannot properly take care of the bright and normal children, and I think this wrong. Sometimes the presence of a retarded child in the home cause the lives of the normal children to be disrupted in one way or another.

In the family of friends of mine, the older boy—a retarded but lovable lad—was kept at home until the parents found that the younger brother was constantly fighting with other boys who were tormenting and making fun of his loved older brother. Then the parents put the lad in a special school where he was contented and happy. A few young women patients of mine have told me that the reason they never married was that every time a beau came to the house, he saw the unpleasant behavior of a retarded brother (or sister) and shied away.

Everyone who is puzzled about this problem ought to read Mrs. Pearl Buck's book about her own little daughter who never grew up. One reason Mrs. Buck saw to it that the child was well established in a good school was that if anything ever happened to her—the mother—the child would not be left stranded in an unsympathetic world. Another good reason for putting a retarded child in a school, if this can possibly be afforded, is that devoted teachers—well and specially trained—in such a school can often teach the child many things, until perhaps he or she can do some useful work in the world.

TUMORS

Many persons are puzzled because their physician uses the terms benign and malignant. Benign means that there is a tumor or ulcer which is not cancerous and will not grow and scatter so as to kill the patient. A malignant tumor is a cancerous tumor. Many physicians often speak of a "malignancy" when they mean cancer.

A cyst (a little sac of fluid) is usually benign, but there are few cystic tumors that have cancer inside them; hence they are best removed surgically. Only after the lump has been examined by a pathologist, with his microscope, can one say what it is. "Functional" troubles are usually nervous in nature and not due to any local ulcer or tumor that could be cut out. By "organic" we doctors usually mean something wrong that we can see and cut out.

ELECTROCARDIOGRAM

All patients should know that, much as with X-ray films which must be interpreted expertly, so also with electrocardiograms, the wiggly line traced by the instrument are of no value until they have been interpreted by an expert who knows just what every little wave means. Most important of all, the doctor must know how many of the little wiggles he can disregard because they are within the limits of normal for a person of the patient's age and weight.

Victoria Climate Should Prove Ideal for Cloche Gardening

That the weather has been beyond comparison is not news.

Such a mild winter I have never known, nor do I expect to live long enough to see another like it.

Therefore, we are starting our daily column a little earlier than usual, about two weeks, I think. This will be our eighth year and there is still an enormous acreage yet to cover.

Hilda will give you her ideas on seed sowing (and is she adept) and I shall try to tell you about the mechanical side of gardening.

I shouldn't tell you this, but today I had the chance to buy about 350 continuous cloches, those famous ones made by the Chase people in Chertsey, England. There are two styles, the tent and the barn, both very aptly named. You should most certainly try a few.

Remember that the more air you can trap the better they work. One is just a little less than useless, but 10 really trap the heat. Our climate is ideal for cloche gardening all year around, but you must have plenty of compost in the soil.

Cloches without compost are like dishes without food.

And don't forget to mail in your questions.

"Hair" questions answered

Mrs. G.H.—I'm sorry ma'am, I have to see your boy first, before I could give him a brush-cut. If his hair is not suitable for it, I would advise a different haircut. He will be much happier with it.

Westcoast Urges Exports of Gas

CALGARY (CP)—A leading Canadian pipeline company exporting gas to the United States says that unless available markets are utilized immediately under a national export policy enormous reserves of valuable natural gas in western Canada will be wasted.

In a brief to the Borden energy commission Wednesday, Westcoast Transmission Co. Ltd. appealed for a national policy favorable to gas export that will assure development of the gas industry serving Canadian consumers and provide export of surplus gas.

Vice-President Charles R. Hetherington of Calgary gave these observations:

Canadian gas reserves, in the opinion of Westcoast, far exceed the requirements of consumers in Canada and markets in the United States should be secured for the surplus.

If the American markets are not secured as early as possible they will be lost, perhaps permanently, to competing U.S. gas companies.

DEVELOP RESERVES

Unless reserves are developed soon other fuels will displace gas and make it as "superfluous and as useless" as present coal resources in Alberta.

Without export possibilities there is no incentive for companies engaged in exploration for oil and gas to continue investing money in development programs.

Lack of decision by the federal government toward export development will affect the jobs of thousands of Canadians employed in the exploration and processing phases of the gas industry.

Estimated future reserves of gas in B.C. and Alberta may be as much as 300,000,000,000 cubic feet compared with present-known recoverable pipeline gas totalling 24,500,000,000 cubic feet.

Export pipelines can make economical use of the surplus and in the process, by supplying Canadian consumers en route, will be able to offer gas at costs much lower than if the smaller Canadian market were to be satisfied alone.

Mr. Hetherington said gas is of national interest because rapidly expanding discoveries have provided supplies of the fuel which are surplus to the needs of Canadian consumers. It has become an important exportable natural resource and, if governed by sound national policies, will accelerate economic growth and contribute to the welfare of Canada.

Three American companies said Wednesday they welcome any possible Canadian natural gas the federal government "de-

If it could be bought that way, you could quickly see how much more electricity you're using now, with additional electrical appliances, than you used a few years ago.

The average B.C. Electric residential customer now uses nearly three times as much electricity as in 1946, but is paying less per kilowatt hour. The average price per kilowatt hour for residential service in 1946 was 2.4 cents. In 1956 it was 2.1 cents.

CHURCHILL TURNS DOWN INVITE TO VISIT CANADA

NICE, France (Reuters)—Sir Winston Churchill is unlikely to be able to visit Canada this summer in response to an invitation made by Lord Beaverbrook as chancellor of the University of New Brunswick, it was announced today.

Churchill's parliamentary secretary, Montague Brown, said "the desire is not lacking but it may not be possible for practical reasons and it is unlikely Sir Winston will be able to accept the invitation."

Borstal School Stays; Another Planned—A-G

The New Haven Borstal School will be left at its present location in Burnaby for the time being, Attorney-General Bonner told the legislature Wednesday.

At the same time the government intends this year to establish a second "Borstal type" program in conjunction with the new Haney Correctional Institute, he said.

The announcement indicated the government had backed down in the face of mounting public protest from a previous decision to move New Haven.

Mr. Bonner quoted from the 1950 report of a government-appointed commission recommending the removal of New Haven to a site more suitable for expansion with cottage-type buildings.

CHANGE THIS YEAR

In an interview two weeks ago, the attorney-general let it be known that the government intended to make the switch this year.

Since then he has been deluged with protests from organizations and from both opposition and government members within the legislature. A delegation from the John Howard Society met with Mr. Bonner last week.

Mr. Bonner told the House the new Borstal program will be for young offenders who do not qualify on examination for New Haven.

It is planned to take about 30 youths into this program, approximately the same number that are at New Haven.

Both have been consolidated with the new Haney jail in the 1958-59 budget estimates to simplify administration, the attorney-general said.

AIM, TREATMENT

It will also allow for interchangeability of staff, he said. Aim of the whole provincial prison system is treatment, the attorney-general said.

Treatment facilities at Oakalla have been limited, he said, and rehabilitation of prisoners should be much greater at Haney.

It is planned to reduce the number of prisoners at Oakalla from a maximum of 1,349 last year to 835 in the current year. Planning at Haney is for 630 inmates.

Ratio of prisoners to staff will be cut to 2.5 to 1 at Oakalla and will be 2 to 1 at Haney both well below the average in other North American prisons, Mr. Bonner said, while the ratio of prisoners to staff in 1952 was 6.4 to 1.

TRUSTIES' NO GOOD

At that time Oakalla was "under direction of the staff but under virtual control of the inmates" through the "trustee" system.

The situation was "tyranny," Mr. Bonner said, and the trustee program was ended in 1953.

Mr. Bonner said the provincial probation service has been doubled in the last three years and three more probation officers will be added in the 1958-59 fiscal year to make a total of 28 in the province.

He praised the achievements of the Young Offenders' Unit at Oakalla, which he said has a 70 per cent record of rehabilitation. This was comparable to the 80 per cent of New Haven because of the more disturbed type of prisoner treated.

AID FROM OTTAWA

The attorney-general said the government is holding up on construction of a new women's jail at a site already selected in the Fraser Valley, until the extent of federal participation has been determined.

A federal-provincial conference should be held soon to consider recommendations of the Fauteux report, he said.

There have been suggestions, Mr. Bonner said, that the federal government may assume responsibility for all prisoners serving more than a six-month sentence.

Board Head Of Montreal Paper Dies

MONTREAL (CP)—John Bassett, the silver-tongued Irishman who influenced the policy of the Montreal Gazette for almost half a century, died Wednesday night in hospital. He was 72.

He had been chairman of the board of directors of the Gazette Printing Company Ltd. since March, 1956, and was president of the company from 1937 to 1956.

Mr. Bassett won success as readily as he won friends. A cub reporter for The Gazette in 1910, he was Ottawa correspondent for the paper a year later. In 1913, at the age of 27, he was named to the board of directors of Gazette Printing Company.

He interrupted his newspaper career to serve overseas during the First World War, rising to the rank of major and winning the Belgian government's Ordre de Reconnaissance.

During 15 years as The Gazette's resident Ottawa correspondent he became president of the parliamentary press gallery in 1925-26 and was Canadian delegate to the Third Imperial Press Conference in Australia in 1925.

'ALPHA' RADIO REPORTED OUT

WASHINGTON (AP)—The defence department said Wednesday signals from one of two radio transmitters in the U.S. Explorer satellite apparently have stopped.

The transmitter, originally expected to function for from two to three weeks, was the most powerful of two encased in the 30-pound satellite.

The satellite "Alpha" was launched by the U.S. Army Jan. 31. If the batteries have gone dead, they lasted less than 12 days.

Ship Rocket Boomerangs

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Falling on launching, a rocket-propelled anti-submarine weapon crashed back on the United States destroyer Eaton last Thursday and killed a sailor, the navy confirmed Wednesday. The 600-pound weapon, known as Alpha, plunged through the boat deck into the ship's log room on the main deck. The weapon was loaded with plaster, not explosives.

HE WASN'T SEEING PINK ELEPHANTS

SALZBURG, Austria (Reuters)—A shaken, white-faced motorist drove through red lights here and was stopped by a policeman.

"An elephant was sitting on my car," he told the officer—and was whisked off to the station house for a drunk-driving test.

But he produced a note from a circus official stating an elephant had indeed been trying to sit on his car.

Police checked and found an elephant, trained to sit on a green stool, had attempted to climb up onto the roof of the man's small green car when he stopped outside Salzburg to let the circus pass.

The man, freed by police, kept the note for his insurance broker. The elephant had dented his car's roof.

Engineers Stay Much in Demand

The demand for engineering graduates will stay ahead of the supply, despite 1,800 graduates from Canadian universities this year, according to Dr. L. Austin Wright, general secretary of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

In Victoria Wednesday on a cross-nation tour, Dr. Wright said that one provincial government reported it was short 1,000 engineers.

He suggested establishment of a junior engineering school at Victoria College, and said it would require no great expenditure in equipment.

He said he would ask the Vancouver Island branch of the Institute to study the merits and difficulties of creating such a school.

To help meet the demand for engineers in Canada, six more universities have started within the past two years to offer bachelor-level courses in engineering, in addition to the 10 which previously had engineering schools.

Four more have set up junior colleges of engineering, Dr. Wright said.

Bonner Defends Debt Reduction

Frees Cash for Operational Costs, He Tells House; B.C. Credit Good

The Social Credit government's direct debt reduction program is actually freeing cash for operational expenses, Attorney-General Bonner maintained Wednesday.

Mr. Bonner told the legislature that when the government took office in 1952 the required amount for normal debt retirement was $21,000,000.

By this year, as a result of the government's steady reduction of the debt, the figure has been reduced to $12,000,000, leaving more money for other expenditures.

Mr. Bonner said the program enhances the province's credit rating, which now is "excellent."

If the debt had not been reduced, the government would not have been able to pledge guarantees of municipal, sewer and water bonds.

The attorney-general also defended the government's policy of guaranteeing borrowings of "contingent liabilities" such as the Power Commission and the PGE.

Expansion programs of these agencies formed a basic part of the provincial economy last year and provided many jobs, he said.

The total public works investment program in the province amounted to some $250,000,000, Mr. Bonner said, for the highest per capita rate of any province.

"The government is also providing more assistance, both direct, to municipalities than any other province," the attorney-general said.

Mr. Bonner said the government's 1958-59 budget takes a "realistic" view of economic conditions.

Each year there are increasing demands for more government spending, and little resistance to these demands.

"It used to be the function of the opposition to criticize the government for spending too much, not too little," Mr. Bonner said.

B.C. Favors Paying Bonds Over Humans CCFer Says

The B.C. government has proved it is more interested in paying the bond holders of Wall Street than in the health and welfare of the "common man in this province," Cedric Cox (CCF Burnaby) told the legislature Wednesday.

A son-in-law of the late Ernest Winch, who formerly held the Burnaby seat, Mr. Cox emphasized the CCF slogan "Human needs before property rights," and added:

"If the outlook for B.C. is as bright as Premier Bennett said it was in his budget speech, there is no justification for the staff cuts in our social services."

"We should be going all out to find work for our people even if we have to go into debt to do it."

A forceful speaker, Mr. Cox agreed there had been considerable success with patients at Essondale and the new drugs used were working wonders.

"That is all the more reason why we should spend more money in this field, and we should also be prepared to pay higher wages to keep our staff and attract new people from outside the province."

He referred to British Columbia's civil defence organization as "a farce" and suggested that, with so much unemployment, an early start should be made in building air raid shelters.

Turning to the Wenner-Gren scheme for developing north central B.C., Mr. Cox urged the government to "take another

UBC ALUMNI PROTEST GOV'T STAFF CUTS

A protest against the government's staff reductions has been sent to Premier Bennett by the Victoria Branch of the UBC Alumni Association.

"This policy indicates to us a lack of foresight in planning as many professional and technical services should be increased in an expanding province," the branch said.

A too heavy work load on remaining civil servants may cause them to quit government service and go into private fields, the Alumni warned.

Pocket Rocket Zooms

Habs Clip Leafs; Henri Gets Pair

By The Canadian Press
Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard is moving back into contention for the National Hockey League scoring title.

The younger, smaller brother of Montreal's famous Rocket hasn't been far out of the picture all season. But he slumped after a fast start and in recent weeks has been eclipsed by line-mate Dickie Moore, the current leader.

But Henri has slowly been edging back and Wednesday night scored two goals against one assist for Moore as Montreal Canadiens defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 5-2.

TRAILS BY TWO

The goals brought Henri's total to 24 and gave him 65 points, two behind Moore. Moore, chosen as the league's all-star left winger at the midway point but now playing right wing in place of the injured Maurice Rocket Richard, is 15 points ahead of third-place Andy Bathgate of New York Rangers.

With only 16 games remaining, the race appears to have narrowed between Henri, who will celebrate his 22nd birthday next Wednesday, and Moore, now in his seventh season with Montreal.

The game's scoring was typical of the power that has brought the Canadiens to a 27-point lead over the second-place Rangers.

SHARE SCORING

Besides Richard, Montreal scorers were Tom Johnson, Andre Pronovost and Jean Beliveau. Richard's first goal came while Toronto's Dickie Duff was penalized.

Toronto scorers were Ron Stewart and Brian Cullen. It was a costly loss for Leafs, in fifth place three points behind Boston Bruins. Each team has 17 games left to play. Toronto is only two points ahead of Chicago Black Hawks and Hawks have a game in hand.

Last season was the only other Henri and Dickie have made it into the league's top 10 scorers. They were only a couple of points apart then too with Moore having 29 goals and 29 assists for 58 points and eighth place. Richard had 18 goals and 36 assists for 54 points and ninth place.

Only one stroke will separate the four leaders when the third and final round of the winter competition is staged at Gorge Vale in March. Gorge Vale's Art Donaldson and Colwood's Laurie Kerr share first place with 36-hole scores of 143. Kerr, winner of the first medal this season, fired a two-over-par 72 over his home course Sunday to tie Donaldson, who came in with a 74.

Thumper Agrees With Ty; Several Good Years Left

BY OSCAR FRELEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Ty Cobb, the old "Georgia Peach," figures that Ted Williams can go on "at least as long as I did" and the Boston Red Sox star agrees with out question.

Cobb waited until he was 43. Williams, who last season was the top hitter in baseball with a .388 average, will be 40 in August.

According to Cobb's figures, the Thumper has at least three good seasons left in him and Williams backed this up by confiding to friends "I feel I have several more good years left."

"Several" is a rather indefinite span of seasons.

"But you can't get away from the fact that Williams is in remarkably good shape and takes care of himself," said Cobb, who hit .323 for the Philadelphia Athletics when he closed it out at 43.

Williams is looking forward eagerly to a season in which the rich Red Sox will pay him $125,000. He is in happier winter spirits than ever and is concerned only about an ankle injury he suffered fishing in Labrador last fall. Doctors have told him the ankle will be all right but he admits "it still bothers me."

Cobb thinks he will be all right, too, and asserts that Joe DiMaggio "could have played a couple more years, too."

Joltin' Joe discloses that he could have "written my own ticket" to keep playing with the Yankees when he stepped down after the 1951 season at the age of 37.

JOE WAS PROUD
"Dan Topping offered me a blank contract and told me to fill in my own figure," says DiMaggio. "But I knew I couldn't play every day and I wasn't worth that kind of money to the Yankees."

There is more to DiMaggio's decision than that. Joe is an extremely proud man. He cherishes the great moments he had with and for the Yankees and, when physical ailments cut down his efficiency and he faced periods of inaction on the bench, Joe decided that he owed it to himself as well as to the team to step down.

He played only 116 games in 1951 and batted what was, for him, a mediocre .263. "But he could have played several more years," Cobb insisted after listening to these factors. "My point is that all athletes have a longer playing life than they did in my day."

NO END IN SIGHT

Cobb was, of course, an exception in any era but particularly in his own. He played 334 games and batted .357 in his semi-final year and then, at 42, fell off to .95 games and his closing .323 average in 1952.

Two years earlier, however, Jack Dempsey was considered an "old man" at 31 when he lost the heavyweight championship to Gene Tunney. But take a look at the athletes of today.

Archie Moore at 41 still rules the light-heavyweights with an iron, if ancient, fist. Sam Snead at 46 is talking with blithe assurance about winning the U.S. open this summer. Ben Hogan, at the same age, is getting ready to shoot for a record fifth win in that event—and will undoubtedly be one of the top favorites.

And then, with no end in sight, there's Williams.

Youthful Trio on Spree As Royals Clobber Cats

Listless Cougars Absorb Second Straight Defeat

For the second time in two nights Victoria Cougars went tumbling to defeat in Western Hockey League road games on the mainland as New Westminster Royals bludgeoned them, 7-2, in Queen's Park Arena Wednesday.

Playing much the same brand of listless hockey they displayed in Tuesday's 6-1 loss to Vancouver Canucks, Cougars were never in contention.

The youthful firebrands from the Queen City, Art Jones, Gary "Bad Boy" Edmundson and Pat Hannigan, were mainly responsible for the loss as they gathered in a total of 12 points on five goals and seven assists in the contest.

With a 3-1 lead at the end of the first period, Royals added a pair in the second and had the score at 7-1 before Gordy Wilson could add the final goal for the Cats on a play with Carl Kaiser and Tom McCarthy in the third period.

Doug Macauley picked up the first Cougar marker in the first period, when he beat goaltender Bev Bentley in combination with McCarthy.

For the Royals, Jones and Edmundson each scored two goals and added two assists while Hannigan tallied once and set up three goals.

SCOTTY BUSY

Other New Westminster scorers were Dick Van Impe and Hugh Barlow.

Bentley handled 27 shots safely while Emile Francis was called on for 25 saves in the game which saw referee Scotty Morrison assess 31 minutes in penalties.

Victoria picked up 23 minutes worth of the whistles, including a five minute major to playing-coach Pat Egan and a 10-minute misconduct to Carl Kaiser.

AT SEATTLE FRIDAY

Egan picked up his major when Morrison called him for deliberately trying to injure Van Impe on a check which saw the Royal winger sprawled on the ice after a body blow to the ribs. Kaiser's misconduct was a result of too much arguing over a minor penalty called against him. Both were in the second period.

Cougars came home for a rest today before travelling to Seattle Friday and return for a game against Vancouver Canucks at Memorial Arena Saturday.

Egan decided at a player meeting this morning to go with the same lineups as he has used in the last few games.

Giardello Wins

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Joey Giardello, fourth-ranked middleweight, kept alive his hopes of a summer title fight Wednesday night by winning a unanimous 10-round decision over Franz Szuzina, a rough customer from Bremen, Germany. Giardello weighed 160½, Szuzina 160.

Late Surge Too Much For Flyers

EDMONTON (CP)—Winnipeg Warriors relieved the threat to their leadership of the Western Hockey League's Prairie Division Wednesday night by whipping their closest rivals, in enemy territory.

Paced by Earl Ingardfield, who scored three goals, the division leaders set back Edmonton Flyers 6-3 at Edmonton, thus lengthening their lead over the second-place Flyers to three unanswered goals in the third period made the difference.

Had the Flyers come out on top they would have been a single point behind the Warriors.

BROKEN LEG

The game contained a double portion of woe for the Flyers. Coach Bud Polk announced afterwards that left winger Metro Prystal had suffered a broken leg and was through for the season.

Prystal had scored 27 points since coming to the Flyers from Detroit after the season began. He crashed into the Edmonton goal in the third period.

Winnipeg scorers besides Ingardfield were Bill Mosienko, Bruce Lea and Steve Wittik. Edmonton marksmen were Chuck Holmes, Hugh Coffin and Bud MacPherson.

In the late minutes a four-player fight broke out, for which Colin Kilburn and Gerry Melynk of Edmonton and goalie Ray Mikulan and Lea received major penalties.

B.C. STARS MAY MAKE RUGBY TOUR OF JAPAN

VANCOUVER (CP)—The prospects are bright for a 1959 visit to Japan by a British Columbia all-star rugby team, president Bob Spray of the B.C. Rugby Union, has announced.

Spray said that if arrangements are completed, the team will play nine matches in Japan. Still under discussion is the time of year for the trip, he said.

It is 26 years since an all-Canadian rugby team went to Japan.

Negotiations will continue shortly with Take Okumura, secretary of the Japanese Rugby Union, who was here on business earlier this week and left for San Francisco. He is to return in about a week.

MAKES CURLING HISTORY

Teen-Age Rink Wins Brier Spot

WINNIPEG (CP)—An 18-year-old Winnipeg skip Wednesday night led his teen-age rink from Winnipeg Granite to the Manitoba curling championship, defeating Marno Frederickson of Winnipeg Strathcona 9-6 in a thrilling provincial final before 6,000 fans at Winnipeg Arena.

The Terry Braunstein rink, with brother Ron Braunstein, 17, third, Ray Turnbull, 18, second and Jack Hellemund, 16, lead, now will represent the province in the Dominion curling championships at Victoria, March 3.

It will be the youngest rink in history ever to gain a spot in the Canadian final.

The rink, which was formed less than a month ago, will carry tradition and prestige to Victoria. Fifteen times in 28 years the Manitoba champion has won the Dominion title. Three Manitoba winners were Granite Club rinks.

HOLD STEADY LEAD

Showing the form of seasoned curlers, the Braunstein rink grabbed a 3-0 lead on the first end, led 3-2 after three, 5-3 after six, 9-3 after nine and ran out the string on the 12th end after Frederickson narrowed the margin with one in the 10th and two in the 11th.

Time after time the young rink took advantage of Frederickson's misuses or came up with a sensational rock not only to rob their opponents of possible points but to add to the Granite Club total.

It was the biggest sporting upset in Manitoba history and few fans left before the final rock.

Terry Braunstein said, after winning the match, "It's the most exciting thing of my life... something I only dreamed of."

After returning from Houston University at Houston, Tex., where he received an athletic scholarship for track and field, Braunstein trained daily for the Brier.

FOLLOWS WATSON'S STYLE

He has curled for nine years and patterns his game after the style of three-time Canadian champion Ken Watson of Winnipeg and Howie Wood, Jr., Manitoba champion in 1957.

The younger Braunstein, Turnbull and Hellemund, all attend high school. Ron, in grade 11, twice has curled with his brother-in-law, the Manitoba bonspiel and twice played in the provincial high school championships.

Playing in the Mackenzie Trophy primary and Woodward Trophy secondary events, Victoria rinks broke even in wins.

Gar Taylor of Victoria defeated Vancouver's Annis Stukus rink 12-8 while the Sid Thomas rink, skipped by Bill McLean, suffered an early 9-6 defeat by Alberni's Frank Hunt quartet.

OUTDOOR REPORT BY Doug Peden

It is unfortunate that the current economy program of the provincial government is destined to reduce the staff of the game branch at a time when proper game management is more important than ever.

Our fish and game resources last year produced more revenue for British Columbia and more recreation for its citizens than ever before, but their future is becoming more and more dependent on good management and adequate supervision. Although problems are increasing with hunting and fishing pressure, the wildlife resources should continue to grow in value for many years—if handled efficiently.

The game department has long been hampered by a manpower shortage and it might be wise to take another look at our expanding outdoors industry and consider the advantages of increasing rather than decreasing the department's strength.

Cutting expenses is not always economy.

B.C. hunters passed a big milestone last year as they boosted membership in their fraternity past the 100,000 mark, adding almost 11,000 new members to swell their ranks to 102,150.

Numbers of non-resident hunters were boosted by almost 8 per cent, climbing to 3,255, and the number of licensed guides climbed to 1,030.

Sales of angling licences also set a new high as 127,827 residents and 39,264 visitors paid for the right to fish in fresh water. Many thousands more took part in licence-free salt-water angling.

How did the army of sportsmen fare in B.C. in 1957?

Game commission figures estimate that the more than 270,000 persons who were afield took around 10,000,000 fish, 55,000 big game animals and 550,000 game birds.

Average expenditure for their outdoor sport was approximately $135 for each resident and considerably higher for visiting sportsmen. In addition to more than $1,200,000 paid out in licence fees, anglers and hunters spent close to $50,000,000 in British Columbia.

Which keeps B.C.'s outdoors industry comfortably in the class of big business.

To look after the business, the game branch has 132 permanent employees and last year hired 77 casual employees. Of the regular employees, 83 are on administration and office staffs, 14 in the predator control division, seven are employed in game management work and 28 in the fisheries division.

In all, staff members travelled about 2,000,000 miles in the course of their duties.

The old PML 3, which had become a familiar sight along the mainland coast during its 30 years of service as the game commission patrol boat, has finally been retired.

Now patrolling between Vancouver and Howe Sound is the spanking new PGD 3, launched Feb. 1 at New Westminster. The new craft, also skippered by Cpl. R. Allan, is a 46-footer equipped with a 220 h.p. high-speed diesel and capable of churning through the water at 14 knots.

Victoria Outboard Club, the area's most active boating organization, is planning a busy year. Over 20 cruises are being scheduled between April and September. Most cruises will be one or two-day affairs and one will take members into Princess Louisa Inlet.

Since family cruises will be emphasized, the club will be stressing safety precautions.

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters)—Australia Wednesday clinched its current cricket test series against South Africa with a 10-wicket victory in the fourth game of the best-of-five series. Australia won the second game and the other two were tied.

Australia had to go in after lunch to score one run for victory yesterday. The South African second innings closed with the last ball before the interval for 198, which tied the score.

South Africa had followed on when its first innings reached 203 in reply to Australia's 401 and spent yesterday morning struggling for a tie.

But the last six wickets fell for 34 runs. It was inept batting, rather than brilliant bowling, that spelled the South African defeat.

Will Harvey Become Part Of New Shuttle Power?

Will a new shuttle combination start on a trail of victories in the Seattle Open badminton tournament this weekend?

Victoria's Harvey Hurd, Canadian junior badminton champion, will take another step up the bigtime ladder when he joins forces with Dave McTaggart of Vancouver, king of the Dominion's singles stars, in the men's doubles event at the Sound City Saturday and Sunday.

Victoria racquet aces, preparing to stage a mass invasion of Seattle, may be wondering if the McTaggart-Hurd duo is destined to develop into long-lasting power in the sport. But whatever the eventual outcome, the experience of playing with one of the world's top 10 stars will be a big help to Hurd as he prepares to defend his national title in the Canadian Open tournament at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club, March 5-8.

At least 23 other city shuttle-swatters, who will also be getting their final taste of major competition before embarking on the chase for titles in the Dominion meet, will compete in the Seattle tourney, which is being staged in four different clubs.

Among the Victorians slated to compete at Seattle are Jim Wells, Eric Hlibbert, Reg Hoadley, Bob McMurchie, Bob Peskett, Ross Young, Phil Salmon, Rom Knott, Brian Sluggett, Claire King, Maureen Bray, Bumps Salmon and Jean Massey. Although the junior portion of the Canadian tournament is limited to four players from each province in each of the boys' and girls' singles events, the other divisions are open to all players.

Entry forms are now being distributed among local clubs and a large contingent is expected to represent Greater Victoria clubs in the events, which will attract some of the world's greatest experts.

Entry fee in each of the six open events—men's singles and doubles, women's singles and doubles, mixed doubles and senior men's doubles—is $3 per person per event. Entries may be sent to Phil Salmon, play committee chairman, at the Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

Each entrant must be a member of a club which is affiliated with the Canadian Badminton Association. Entries close at midnight Feb. 28 and draws for the various events will be made at 8 p.m. Tuesday, Mar. 4.

SPECIAL TOURNAMENT
To ease expenses for junior players, the host club is attempting to billet most of the visiting youngsters and is still seeking a few accommodations. Victoria players Sharon Windaker, Jang Lee and Hurd won three of the eight junior places allowed B.C. in a special series at Vancouver last weekend.

The Cordova Bay club will hold a special centennial junior round-robin tournament for players eliminated before the semi-final round of the Dominion meet.

Also being held in conjunction with the national shuttle classic is the annual inter-provincial team competition for the Manitoba Trophy and the Canadian association will hold its annual meeting at the host club on the morning of Mar. 17.

Coach Archie McKinnon has asked that all swimmers be at the pool by 7.

A number of novice events have been scheduled as well as the senior and junior longer-distance competitions.

City Hoop Titles At Stake Tonight

A battle to a finish is shaping for Central Junior High School gym tonight when Dickinson and Dunn and Dairy Queen Ede meet in the final game of the Victoria Senior "B" Basketball League best-of-three city championship series.

Double D's pulled the upset of the season last Thursday when they dropped Dairy Queens, 45-41, to even the series after losing the opener 53-37.

Tiremen had been unable to win a single league game against the classy Ede, but can now move into the Lower Island championship playoffs against Chemainus with a win tonight.

Preliminary action will be provided by Victoria B's and Meteors in the second game of the Victoria women's best-of-three city championship series. B's took the opener by a 45-25 count last week and are expected to sweep the series two-straight tonight.

Men's action gets under way at 8:30, following the women's game at 7 p.m.

Oaks Gain Ground In School Soccer

Displaying a scrappy, driving brand of soccer, Oak Bay High School climbed into second place in the Inter-High Senior Soccer League Wednesday by handling Mount Douglas its first defeat of the season, a 2-0 shutout.

Held scoreless through the evenly-contested first half, Oak Bay broke through in the second when Larry Brown tallied on a smart pass from John Youson and Brian Cornell diverted a drive from Pat Mulcahy.

In other league action, unbeaten Victoria High barely managed to eke out a 1-0 win over Mount View to move three points into the league lead.

SADLER STARS

Forced to play a defensive game most of the way, Vic High won only on the sparkling effort by goalie Barry Sadler who, at times, held Mount View at bay almost single-handed.

In senior girls inter-high basketball action Wednesday Mount Douglas and Esquimalt completed their league schedules with overwhelming wins. Mount Douglas defeated Oak Bay 20-14, at Oak Bay, and Esquimalt bounced St. Ann's Academy 84-7.

Mount View defeated St. Margaret's 28-6 in a third game.

Mount Douglas and Esquimalt now move into a two game total-point series for the city title and the right to meet the Saanich champions for the zone crown.

Kickers Face Hungarians In Cup Match

Victoria Kickers will be taking a 4-4 league record into Lower Island Province Cup quarterfinal soccer Saturday at Royal Athletic Park when they meet Canadian Hungarians at 2 p.m.

Hungarians, on the other hand, will be looking for their first win in seven starts when they start the match.

In Sunday action, all eyes will be on Central Park where Brodie's Bakery and Gorge Hotel will be slugging it out for the second-half league lead, and perhaps the second-half title.

Brodies can clinch a berth in the league playoff against Tillicum while a Hotel win would create a first-place tie with Gorge holding a game in hand.

Only other weekend game scheduled will match first-half champion Tillicum against Punjab United at Heywood Avenue Park.

Trustees, Teachers Agree On Wage Hike in North Van

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP) — School trustees and teachers here have agreed on a 13.5 per cent salary boost in 1958.

A joint statement issued by trustees and teachers said the agreement reached "partly accomplishes the teachers' main requests this year for a professional scale."

A single scale is now in effect for elementary and secondary teachers.

Basic 1958 salaries for teachers holding elementary certificates will range from $3,100 to $5,100 with the maximum attainable in 10 years.

Basic salaries for secondary teachers will range from $4,000 to $6,800 with the maximum attainable in 14 years.

Meanwhile, teachers' organizations in Alberta and Quebec have offered support to B.C. Teachers' Federation in its campaign against compulsory salary awards.

The federation said Wednesday it has received messages of support from the Alberta Teachers' Association, the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers of Quebec and the Vancouver and District Labor Council.

MANY RESCUES — Lifelines in the United Kingdom saved 609 persons in 716 missions during 1957.

The Alberta association of teachers full support "in your struggle to maintain your rights as citizens."

The Quebec association assured support "in your efforts to preserve the rights of Canadian teachers to negotiate directly with school boards for improvements in salary, working and professional conditions generally."

CRANBROOK, B.C. (CP) — A merit-rating system, believed unique in British Columbia, has been incorporated in a new contract for Cranbrook district teachers.

The contract, retroactive to Jan. 1, sets a basic salary lower than that for surrounding districts but allows for additional remuneration based on individual performance.

Responsibility for deciding on merit rating rests jointly on school principals, inspectors and school boards.

Bank of Montreal in New Building

Traditions of the newly-completed Bank of Montreal at Montreal absorbed the Merchants' Bank and moved into its renovated premises at Yates and Douglas in 1924.

The Bank of Montreal's forerunner was the Bank of British North America, then on lower Yates Street. They amalgamated in 1918.

Three years later the Bank of Brothers and Hamilton, and the Bray Block at the rear of the bank was demolished to allow expansion.

The Bank, now covering five lots of valuable city property, was completed last month. The main floor is an operating department and upstairs are two other departments, a dining room, kitchens and staff lounges.

FIRMS

the morning session but Mr. Sommers returned to Victoria during the afternoon after he was excused at his own request to attend the current session of the legislature. Magistrate Orr said he would be recalled if needed.

FIVE WITNESSES HEARD.
Five of an expected 40 witnesses testified Wednesday, including H. F. Frederiksen and B. J. Keeley, presidents of Tahsis Co. Ltd. and Empire Mills Ltd. respectively.

Both men identified documents that included payment of cheques — $5,000 by Empire Mills and $16,000 by Tahsis — to Schultz Ltd. in connection with forest management licences.

In each case defence lawyers objected that the documents were irrelevant because the charges did not mention the two companies.

J. R. Nicholson, counsel for the Grays and their companies, added:

"My clients are charged with acts colloquially referred to as bribery and what does it matter where they got the money? How far back do we go?"

Mr. McMorran argued that the documents were relevant because "certain funds will be alleged to have been received by certain companies which earmarked certain percentages in advance of receiving the money."

Later he said:

"I'm saying the money from Empire and Tahsis was paid towards getting licences and it found its way into the hands of those involved in the bribery charges."

FIRMS IGNORANT

"So far as I'm aware, neither Empire Mills nor Tahsis knew their money was going to be used for bribes."

Magistrate Orr told Mr. McMorran he couldn't "have it both ways" by saying all the money paid by Tahsis was used for bribes "and yet it did not know it was being used for bribery."

"That's what I'm going to try to show," replied the prosecutor. "I want to make it clear that so far as I know Tahsis did not know its money was to be used for bribes but (he slammed his hand down on a pile of 155 documents involving Tahsis) all this money was used for bribes and it was decided in advance of the money being paid."

When Mr. Frederiksen said the Tahsis documents included payments in connection with a forest management licence and "other" logging matters, Magistrate Orr said they would have to be separated.

Mr. McMorran said the two types of transactions were included in the same bills. He read one out showing various payments including $2,000.

"All I'm interested in is that $2,000. But I can't cut the document in half," he said.

He argued that because all dealt with logging matters they should be admitted.

"I haven't said in the charge that bribery was connected with forest management licences. There are lots of things that a minister can be bribed for besides forest management licences."

NEED OBVIOUS

The statement brought Alfred Bull, QC, counsel for Schultz, to his feet with the rejoinder: "That makes it so obvious we need more particulars in the charge."

"If it was so obvious then why didn't you make a motion earlier," replied the magistrate, referring to a wrangle that delayed the start of the morning session when Angelo Branca, QC, counsel for Mr. Sommers, objected to the charge.

Mr. Branca argued that exact particulars of the alleged offences were missing from the charge.

"With the charge as wide as it is, my client doesn't know what he's charged with."

"What did we accept and from whom? What did we do or omit to do? Here we have no specification of place or manner (of the alleged offences). We haven't had any particulars at all."

Mr. Bull supported the motion for more particulars but Mr. McMorran countered that the defence had been given a schedule of documents to be submitted and details of the examination of 40 witnesses. More particulars than were in the charge were not needed in a preliminary hearing, he said.

Magistrate Orr, after observing that it had been understood previously that all motions for more particulars were to be made before Wednesday, said he would proceed with the case.

He asked Mr. McMorran to draw up more particulars but the prosecutor replied that he couldn't do it unless there was an adjournment.

RCMP Sgt. J. W. Purdy on the stand produced 91 documents seized Nov. 21, 1957, from the offices of Pacific Coast Services and Evergreen Lumber by a number of RCMP officers and chartered accountants.

He admitted that he initiated many of them within the last two weeks. He said he did not know who had actual possession of them when they were seized. They were handled by a number of policemen and accountants during examination and photostating at the courthouse and the city hall.

Second witness, Cpl. Joseph Sehl, produced 238 documents seized from Schultz Ltd. and B.C. Forest Products.

He admitted under cross-examination that he had initiated "more than half" of them in the last two weeks along with the date "Nov. 21, 1957." He said he wrote that date because that was the time they were seized.

He denied that he knew of any "probable effect" of the initiated dates on a jury.

WHITTLED DOWN

"There were literally thousands of documents and we had to whittle them down. It would have been ridiculous to initial all of them," he told the magistrate.

Cpl. Sehl said numerous witnesses and other persons were "in and out" of an office where the documents were kept during the examination by accountants.

Gerald W. Ledger, employed in the Canadian Bank of Commerce regional office, produced 87 documents from bank custody involving accounts held by Mr. Sommers, Pacific Coast Services Ltd., Evergreen Lumber Sales Ltd. and C. D. Schultz Ltd. He said he had no personal knowledge of the documents.

Several included undisclosed deposits in favor of Mr. Sommers at banks in Dawson Creek, Victoria and Revelstoke.

Mr. Keeley said Empire Mills paid $5,000 to Schultz Ltd. for services in connection with forest management licences. He said Mr. Schultz was considered the best forest consultant in Canada "if not in the world."

PLANNING NEEDED

The money was paid for services in applying for a forest management licence and carrying out preparatory work such as planning roads, replanting, protecting watersheds and preventing forest fires.

The application was approved but the planning was required before a licence was actually granted, he said. He said the money was not intended for anyone else than Schultz Ltd.

He denied the money was paid for bribing anyone.

Mr. Frederiksen testified that Tahsis Ltd. paid Schultz Ltd. a $2,000 monthly retainer after a contract was made in 1953 in connection with a forest management licence application.

He began identifying documents relating to his company's application but was interrupted by the adjournment.

Early Hydro Plan Urged by Socred

Development of Columbia River hydro "as soon as possible" was urged in the legislature Wednesday by R. O. Newton (S.C., Columbia).

Mr. Newton said that if the Mica Creek dam project was too big for the B.C. Power Commission to handle, a joint federal-provincial authority should be created to do the job.

Power from Mica Creek could be turned over by this special authority to the Power Commission for distribution, he said.

Mr. Newton blamed the former federal Liberal government for holding up hydro development of the Columbia.

"If it hadn't been for the Liberal government, the dam would be under construction now," he said.

The former government never made a real attempt to negotiate an agreement with the U.S. on downstream benefits, Mr. Newton said.

Gas Tank Explosion Blamed on Rebels

HAVANA (AP)—A gasoline tank owned by an American oil company exploded and caught fire Wednesday night in Santiago de Cuba, capital of Oriente province. The blast was blamed on rebel supporters of Fidel Castro, whose headquarters in Oriente.

DR. KIDD NAMED B.C. LIVESTOCK COMMISSIONER

Appointment of Dr. Abraham Kidd as livestock commissioner and chief veterinary inspector for the provincial agriculture department was announced Wednesday by Agriculture Minister Steacy.

Dr. Kidd has been assistant livestock commissioner and assistant chief veterinary inspector in Victoria since 1954 after joining the department in 1947.

Collision Sinks Turkish Vessel

FLUSHING, The Netherlands (Reuters)—The 7,715-ton Turkish ship Aydin sank in the Scheidt Estuary after a collision with the 12,000-ton French freighter Charles Tellier. No casualties were reported.

Spry Human Guinea Pig Enjoys 'Trip' to Moon

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—United States Air Force scientists showed optimism today as airman Donald Farrell passed the half-way mark on his simulated moon flight.

SPACEMAN FARRELL over half-way mark

The airman, still bright and chipper, completed half his "Journey" Wednesday night, and today was well on his way on the return trip. His seven-day flight is scheduled to end Sunday.

"We are constantly surprised," said Lt. Col. George R. Steinkamp, "at Farrell's continual alertness, lack of fatigue, and especially his lack of boredom." Steinkamp is head of the department of space medicine at Randolph Air Force base here.

Steinkamp and other scientists show guarded optimism over man's ability to withstand the strains and stress of space travel. But he said, "we've got to run other tests." He let it be known that Farrell is just the first air force guinea pig for space-flight tests.

It was announced at Austin, Tex., that the air force has contracted with the University of Texas to set up biochemical tests for pre-selecting space pilots.

Farrell, living in a compact cabin under air pressure usually encountered at 18,000 feet, was subjected to three emergency summons Wednesday. Farrell has no way of knowing whether or not there is a real emergency.

But he continued high-efficiency performance. He made extra-quick time in responding to all of them, Steinkamp said, and once had his emergency gas mask in place in 19.5 seconds.

NO PHYSICAL CHANGE

Air force scientists said the many instruments attached to the electrodes taped over Farrell's body show no significant changes whatever. They measure respiration, heart action, blood pressure and other physical conditions.

Only once has the 23-year-old son of a Wall Street accountant shown signs of irritation. He can have either radio music or taped music channelled into his space cabin. Wednesday he signalled for radio music.

Taped music was turned on. Farrell snapped his signal switch, but was ignored. Displaying aggravation, he snapped it on and off several times. Finally, said Steinkamp, raucous hill-billy music was turned on. Farrell flipped it off and shrugged his shoulders.

The colonel guessed that Farrell was trying to sneak in a news broadcast, banned in his space experiment. "But he couldn't get away with it," Steinkamp smiled.

PLASTIC ROCKET BY JAPANESE WORLD'S FIRST

AKITA, Japan (AP)—A Japanese team Wednesday launched a plastic rocket, believed to be the world's first.

The inventor said it cost about one-fifth less than a metal rocket and should give more accurate observations of electrical phenomena.

The tube-shaped rocket was nine feet long, 51 inches in diameter, weighed 78 pounds and carried a radio transmitter.

BEST QUALIFIED

Summit Berth For Pearson, Martin Note

OTTAWA (CPI)—Paul Martin Wednesday night urged Canadians to elect the Liberals in the March 31 election so that party leader Lester B. Pearson, as prime minister, might be a delegate to a future summit conference of the great powers.

In a speech to a Liberal nominating convention in Ottawa West, the former health minister said he knows of no leader of the free world better qualified for such a role for peace.

Hitting at the "failure" of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Progressive Conservative government to meet the unemployment problem, he said persons registered for unemployment insurance benefits now number 800,000.

George McIlraith was unanimously nominated Liberal candidate for Ottawa West. He has successfully defended the seat since first elected to it in 1940.

An estimated 300 persons attended, occupying about one-quarter of the auditorium's 1,100-odd seats.

RECONVENE CONFERENCE

Mr. Martin said that if Mr. Diefenbaker really had wanted to do something about unemployment, as the prime minister said during the previous election campaign that he would, he should have reconvened last November's federal-provincial conference to deal with the problem.

"It should be in session now just as Parliament ought to be in session."

Mr. Martin said there were more government violations of the rights of Parliament during the 22 weeks of the last session than in Canada's history.

He said Conservative trade policies have aggravated unemployment. Mr. Diefenbaker's announced intention of diverting 15 per cent of Canadian trade from the United States to Britain had resulted in "disquietude, uncertainty and lack of confidence in this administration to keep our economy buoyant."

JOBS TORY TARGET

$20 Million Plan Mapped for B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Public Works Minister Howard Green announced Wednesday a $20,000,000 federal spending program for British Columbia. He told a press conference it will be part of the government's speeded-up construction program aimed at providing jobs for unemployed.

About $9,000,000 will be spent on new buildings and harbor work in B.C. and about $11,000,000 on highway construction.

The projects include a $4,000,000 wing for Vancouver's Shaughnessy Veterans' Hospital, a $2,000,000 science services laboratory for the agriculture department at the University of B.C., a $1,000,000 Indian school and dormitory at Mission, a $500,000 renovation program for an old federal building here and a similar program at the Chilliwack army base.

EFFECTIVE WEAPON

Mr. Green, member for Vancouver-Quadra in the last House, said the Conservative government's most effective weapon against unemployment so far has been its housing program.

"This program has been of tremendous significance in pulling the housing industry out of its slump," he said. "The result has been that 1957, which looked like a bad year for housing, turned out to be one of the best."

Early forecasts last year were for 116,000 housing starts, but the actual number was 122,000 and the government was aiming for a record 140,000 starts this year.

Separate from the $20,000,000 to B.C., Mr. Green said, was a $6,000,000 program for highway construction in Glacier National Park, on the Alberta-Montana border.

The $11,000,000 for highway construction will go towards B.C.'s share of the Trans-Canada Highway. He said the amount represents about 25 per cent of the over-all total for Canada.

July 1 Set To Complete Sunday School

Work on a new $13,000 Sunday school at the corner of Gosworth and Burton is expected to be completed by July 1.

Built largely by volunteer labor, the structure was started in December, 1956, and when finished, will increase seating capacity from 95 to approximately 150.

In charge of the project is the five-member Gosworth Sunday School Society headed by W. Clayton Cronk, former superintendent.

Among the volunteer groups assisting in the work is the Kiwanis Club of Victoria North which has undertaken to lay the hardwood floor.

Also on the Sunday school committee in charge of raising funds and co-ordinating the work are: Clifford Salmon, present superintendent; Percy Wills, Joe Hitchen and Frank Hunter.

Federal Works to Help Wide Section of Island

Almost every section of Vancouver Island will benefit from a $1,500,000 program of public works announced in Vancouver Wednesday night by Public Works Minister Howard Green. Funds have been included in estimates and approved by the treasury board, he said, so work will not be held up while awaiting approval of Commons.

Specific projects are: Campbell River, $225,000 for public buildings and $65,000 for harbor works; Comox, $40,000 for public buildings, $250,000 for improved post office facilities and $26,000 for a breakwater; Port Alberni, $350,000 for public buildings, $62,000 for wharf repairs and $47,000 for improvements to the fishing harbor; Sidney, $65,000 for additions and alterations to public buildings; Chemainus, $30,000 for harbor works; Ladysmith, $129,000 for a boat harbor; Nanaimo, $125,000 for wharf extensions; Ucluelet, harbor works.

(An additional project was announced in Montreal by Transport Minister George Hees, who said tenders will be called shortly for a new terminal building at Port Hardy airport.)

Several of the projects announced by Mr. Green, such as the Ladysmith boat harbor, Nanaimo assembly wharf extensions, and Port Alberni post office, will mark the end of vigorous campaigns by local groups for the improvements.

PRANKSTERS COOLED OFF

READING, Eng. (AP)—Pranksters from Reading University dumped a metal cylinder with the phony inscription "U.S. Air Force—danger" in a public park Wednesday and hid in the bushes waiting for laughs.

Along came a little girl, too young to be able to read. She picked up the cylinder, trotted 50 feet to a river and threw the cylinder in.

Cures for Cancer Close Says Expert

VANCOUVER (CP)—Cures found what appeared to be a for several types of cancer are chemical cure for a rare type close at hand, a leading United States cancer researcher predicted here Wednesday.

Dr. John R. Heller, medical director of the National Cancer Institute, Bethesda, Md., said in an interview there is the prospect of vaccines or drugs which eventually may wipe out the disease.

It was the NCI which announced earlier this week it had which can occur in women during child-bearing.

Dr. Heller said: "In my own opinion we are close to several break-throughs in other types of cancer."

However he said it was impossible to predict when cancer will be completely beaten. "It might be next year, five years or 10 years."

City Set to Purchase New Fire Hall Site

Property Located At Camosun, Yates

Victoria city council is ready to proceed with $90,000 in property purchases at Camosun and Yates for a new fire hall, it was reliably reported today.

The matter was expected to be approved by council either later today or at a special council meeting next week.

Fire wardens committee has been dickering for options for several weeks. It is now understood agreement has been reached with property owners and authority to close the deals will now be asked by the committee.

TO MOVE HOMES

Under the over-all scheme, it is intended to move some of the homes on the site to a new property subdivision at Chambers and Pandora, formerly a storage yard for the city water works department.

Through sale of the homes on their new location, the committee hopes to realize $30,000, thereby reducing the outlay for the fire hall site.

Acting mayor M. H. Mooney could not confirm the arrangements today and said he favored a special council session "next week" to discuss the move.

MOONEY OPPOSED

Ald. Mooney said he still opposes erection of a new hall on the Camosun site. "It will kill the neighborhood for apartment sites."

"However, I'd sure like to get it cleared up before the mayor comes back, even though I oppose it. And if council feels it is in the best interests of the city, I'll go along."

Council earlier approved a $225,000 expenditure for the new fire hall. Fire wardens feel the property switch now planned will leave sufficient funds in the appropriation from reversioned property sales fund, to construct the hall.

Scion Of Old Saanich Family Laid To Rest

John George Thomson, last surviving son of the Saanich Peninsula pioneer William Thomson, was buried in St. Stephen's Church cemetery, Mount Newton Cross Road, Tuesday.

He would have been 87 next August.

William Thomson settled in Saanich Peninsula in 1855 after being shipwrecked off the west coast of Vancouver Island, and built the historic homestead known as Bannockburn on a tree-shaded hill on Mount Newton Cross Road in Central Saanich.

This was one of the first homes to be built on the Island.

LAST OF SONS

John Thomson was the last of William Thomson's six sons, but is survived by the widow, formerly Mary Pearce, of Courtenay, and a sister, Mrs. H. S. Hughes, of Mount Newton Cross Road.

He also leaves a son, Robert Thomson in Vancouver; three daughters, Mrs. W. Giles Langford; Mrs. D. Montgomery, Coombs, and Mrs. A. Hogue, Vancouver.

In his early life he worked as section foreman on the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway at Langford. Then went to South Africa and worked on the Rand Railway.

He returned to Saanich in 1904 and for several years operated a diamond drill with the Wellington Colliery Company.

Then he took over the Bannockburn farm from his elder brother, the late Alex Thomson, in 1932 and operated it until he sold out to Woodward's in 1952. After selling the farm, he retained a few acres and built the home where the widow is still living.

2 Youths Jailed After Admitting Laundry Burglary

Two Victoria youths were sentenced in County Court Wednesday after they admitted breaking into the Economy Steam Laundry Ltd., 607 John Street, last month.

Norman Karl McKenzie, 20, of 1035 Empress, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary; Ronald Leslie McMeekin, 18, of 1906 Birch, was sent to New Haven for six months discontinue and one year indeterminate.

A third youth has already been sentenced for his part in the break-in, and a fourth, Harry Hoskin of Mount Newton Cross Road, is out on bail of $2,500 awaiting trial in the Assize Court.

The girl was checked at Jubilee Hospital emergency and discharged.

Police said a car driven east on Fort by Douglas O. Mylrea, 1903 Duchess, stopped suddenly for a pedestrian in the crosswalk at Craigdarroch and was struck on the rear by a car also driven east by August Lowman. Damage was slight.

Highway Promise Allegedly Broken

Endorsing a resolution requesting the government for a larger share of its road building program, delegates attending a Nanaimo monthly meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island Wednesday, criticized Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi for failing to carry out his promise of extending Island highways.

Arnold Webb, secretary-manager of the Victoria Chamber who attended the meeting, today said delegates were of the unanimous opinion that Mr. Gagliardi has done nothing or little to extend or improve highways in various districts of the Island.

Delegates were annoyed at the indefinite answers provided by the highways minister to questions in a letter from ACCVI last December, he said.

The letter asked the minister when road and bridge construction would start on the Island. Mr. Gagliardi's reply was "when funds are available."

Mr. Webb said a resolution was also passed asking that roads through logging claims be widened to 24 feet and opened 24 hours a day to the public.

Roads leading to Long Beach, West Coast of Vancouver Island, from Alberni, and the Shawinigan Lake road to Port Renfrew, are closed to the public during working hours of the week.

They are open to the public after 4:30 p.m., and on weekends.

Mr. Webb said former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers had definitely promised that these logging roads would be opened to the public 24 hours a day.

"At that time Mr. Sommers was speaking for the government," he said. "This promise has never been carried out."

It was announced today by Capt. C. F. Gibson, rector's warden, that $25,000 will be spent on the church, $30,000 on the adjacent church hall, and $8,000 for a new organ.

Aim of the congregation is to have the improvements fully paid for by 1960, when the church will mark its 100th birthday anniversary, and a program of fund-raising activities will be prepared almost immediately.

City May Reject Saanich Plans For Marine Drive

A Saanich council plan to construct a marine drive along the west shore of Elk Lake was expected to be scuttled by Victoria city council later today.

In order to provide a right-of-way, Saanich would have to buy a strip of land which is privately owned, as well as a strip of city-owned land which parallels the lake shore.

City council public works committee has recommended to council the sale of the land to Saanich be declined.

The committee also recommends that the city purchase the property which is privately owned, the same land Saanich council has been eyeing.

It is expected the privately-owned land is included in an overall plan for development of Beaver-Elk Lake Park as a centennial project.

Construction of the proposed Saanich road could mean development of the adjacent area as a residential subdivision, while the city plan would preserve the area for public use in perpetuity.

Within 24 hours of taking on his big job, Cline was plunged into the pulp and paper strike. Obviously it was a performance which impressed him profoundly.

He was shaken when union negotiators blandly asserted that they "were not concerned" with the facts of economic life—the problem of markets, of capital expansion, of over-supply. What they were concerned with, he said, was getting a better deal than some other union chiefs.

The result was the tragic strike which cost the workers $6,000,000 in wages and the companies more than $50,000,000 in production—the unions going back to the job for precisely the same figure they had turned down in November, when the strike began.

"Our bargaining system is archaic and must be overhauled," the former judge said.

PUBLISHER'S NOTEBOOK

By STUART KEATE

Export---Or Expire?

Flew over to Vancouver to attend a UBC meeting yesterday, and thought I'd drop into the hotel to hear "ohn Valentine Cline make his first public address since he took over as chief of MacMillan & Bloedel."

About 1,000 other men had the same idea. There's a lot of interest in Cline in Vancouver. Why had he left the bench, after seven years, to take the top post in B.C. industry?

Mr. Cline answered the question at the outset. He wanted to be "more active." He felt the time had come to give up "the austere and somewhat remote" life of the bench.

In short (though he didn't say this, he was bored. And boredom can be shattering for the possessor of a restless and inquiring intellect.

A great many of the guests in the vast Vancouver ballroom went to "the luncheon, doubtless intrigued by the title of Cline's talk: "The Path to Economic Suicide."

What they heard was a cogent lawyer's brief, moderately stated but nonetheless clear in its import: we're going to go broke in B.C. if we price ourselves out of the market.

The fact that our province depends on export markets, and that we are compelled to ship high-quality products over thousands of miles, "should be stamped indelibly on every business man, every union leader and every school child in B.C."

Within 24 hours of taking on his big job, Cline was plunged into the pulp and paper strike. Obviously it was a performance which impressed him profoundly.

SHOPPING GUIDE

For a True Taste Treat Let's Try Chocolate Ants!

By PENNY SAVER

How would you like to try a chocolate ant? That's the decision I was faced with the other night at a party. The hostess insisted they were good—and they were. She told me where to buy them, too, and that a can of the unusual (to say the least) confections cost 77 cents. Any way you look at it, they would be a sure party stopper—if that's what you are looking for.

Another taste treat I was offered at the party was a solitary silk worm posed on top of a lump of blue cheese on the top of a cracker! U-m-m-m! Good! If you'd like a tin of these silk worms to try on your friends the price is 67 cents. Sorry, there isn't a remote possibility of acquiring a silk scarf or thread from the can!

How do fried baby bees sound to you? If you want them for your next party, I'll tell you where to buy them. They are 67 cents a can.

Getting back to more ordinary specialties, I found some imported Danish sardines preserved in curry. Spread on small slices of garlic toast they'd be delicious at your next cocktail or tea party. Cans of the sardines come at 27 cents.

There are many kinds of dehydrated soups! But you can bet there is nothing in the world like European dehydrated soups for taste and economy. In the selection I've found there are soups representing nearly every country in Europe! Each foil wrapped pack is 27 cents. For something different and new... phone me at 2-3131.

"WIDOWHOOD"

The Lonely Road

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

This is the second in a series of articles dealing with the problems of widowhood.

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON CHAPTER II

However painful the process may be, the widow must accept the utter finality of death and go on from there to maintain mental stability.

Nothing you can say or do will bring him back. There is no other course but to pull yourself together and do as he and God expect you to do.

You cannot dwell on the past. You cannot torture yourself with things you wish you had done together, or things you might have said, or things you think might have hastened his death.

DON'T LOOK BACK

As difficult as it is, you must be grateful for the love you had until death parted you, remembering that there are others who have had less.

You can't look back. But in the early days of widowhood you can't look too far ahead at one time, either.

The unknown hurdles on the road ahead as well as the innumerable ones already in sight can seem overwhelming. The most you can do is the best you can do, one day at a time.

After talking with other widows during the past year, by my own experience, I am convinced that this is the only way to avoid serious emotional damage following the shock of death.

AN APPREHENSION

Now and then I had wondered vaguely how I would accept death should a tragedy strike a member of my family. This is a natural apprehension, I feel sure, for most people who have not yet encountered it.

As a five-year-old everything seemed good about death. My grandmother kissed me, pressed a quarter into my palm and a few hours later died of cancer. Everybody who had watched her suffer declared, "It was a blessing."

Yet when I was 12 my dearest girl friend, an only child, was struck down by a car on her way to my house. At the graveside where I went as an honorary pall-bearer the anguished mother evoked terrifying shrieks, broke away from her husband and tried to throw herself into the grave onto the child's lowered casket. This memory never left me.

If such a thing as sudden death happened to me could I stand up through the strain?

FULL SHOCK IS DELAYED

When the end of my husband was inevitable, the doctor prescribed medication for me. My friends, worried, ever-watchful, stayed at my side throughout those early days and months.

"This is not happening to me. I'm someone else," is a strange, numb feeling which carried me through the first hours and days. The full shock of realization does not occur at once, my doctor advised. Therefore, I dreaded the visits to the funeral home.

Now I know that I need not have. Not every one may react that way but to me the first view of my husband's body was an invaluable aid in bringing me out of my numbness and face to face with utter finality. I touched him. I brushed his hair onto his forehead. He did not feel like a human being and I knew that he was not there and never would be again.

A LONELY HOME

Sometimes the full realization does not come about until the out-of-town relatives have gone home again, leaving the house emptier than it ever was. During the day then it is possible to fall into the usual daily routine. But at night when no one comes home to dinner, when there is no one to recite the day's activities to, it is hardest.

This is the time to lose your self in a television program, or bury yourself in a book with a deep plot, to engross yourself in some financial matters, to call a friend.

It is not a time to write sympathy cards or reminiscent letters to friends. Real friends can wait and they understand.

Although it is good to accept the urgings of friends and go out with them, it is not advisable to go alone to movies, restaurants or anywhere there is a crowd at first... because lots of people belonging to one another salt the sores of new loneliness.

The next serious phase of grief may occur six months or so later, claims one physician who has guided a number of widows through these difficult times. Although some are able to keep a stiff upper lip by being occupied with the tasks of readjustment, the tasks finally run out. They simply get tired of being brave and strong, and let themselves go into a nervous breakdown.

The only safeguard against this danger is good health. To counteract the damage emotions can do physically a widow should remain under the vigil of her physician for at least a year.

It takes at least a year to recover even partially. There are holidays, birthdays, and the anniversaries full of memories which must be surmounted emotionally.

You can't forget the happy days, you never will. But you can and must make more of the ones... alone, or with what remains of your family, to remember too, the next year.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Stand Straight—You'll Look and Feel Better

Posture has such an amazing effect on the way we look and the impression we give others, to say nothing of its effect on our health! Good posture takes inches from your waist-measurement, making your bust more prominent and your hips less prominent, improves your chinline, flattens your tummy and discourages a Dowager's Hump. It also gives you an air of self-confidence and poise and adds grace to your silhouette.

Good posture gives your heart and lungs more room in which to operate, is conducive to good elimination and deep breathing. It is restful whereas poor carriage places a strain on muscles and ligaments and often leads to backaches or fatigue.

Today I would like to give you three corrective exercises for the three most prevalent results of poor posture—the Dowager's Hump, sway back and round shoulders.

1. Dowager's Hump. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor at your sides. Bend your right knee up and grasp it with your hands, pulling it back close to your body. Hold your leg in this position while you roll your head back and lift your shoulders from the floor (head on the floor). Hold for a few seconds and return to starting position. Do the same thing with your left knee. Continue, alternating right and left. This is also a mild abdominal exercise.

2. Sway back. Lie on the floor on your back with your knees bent and your feet flat on the floor. Arms rest at your sides. Pull your abdominal muscles in hard. Flatten your mid-back against the floor. Hold for a few minutes and relax. Continue. See if you can touch your entire middle back to the floor. Also, when you are walking, remember to pull the hips under and keep the knees relaxed.

3. Round shoulders. Stand tall. Make large circles with your arms. Start with the arms overhead. Bring them side-ward-downward, pulling back as you do so. Cross the arms in front of the body and move them upward. Continue. Be sure to pull back as the arms move side-ward-downward. Lift the chin slightly while doing this exercise and keep the trunk erect.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

Infirmary embarrasses groom's mother:

A serious operation a few months ago has left me very lame. My son will be married in a church wedding and, because of this condition, I simply cannot face coming down the aisle according to the usual procedure. I am self-conscious about it and will undoubtedly get over it in time, but am miserable worrying about this. Members of my family tell me that I must do it the correct way by going down the aisle just before the bride's mother. Must I? Could I not break this rule and be the first one to arrive at the church?

Louise Davis answers: Why, of course Louise Davis, you don't have to go down that aisle at the "proper" time, under the circumstances. So put your good foot down and say no to your family unless you have overcome your embarrassment by the time your son is married. Here we have an exception and it is understandable and logical that you would want to veer from the usual procedure. A wedding is when all "are gathered here together" to witness the marriage vows of two people. It is of no special consequence as to how all gather, just so all are there, so any breaking of a general custom is of no significance, so how could one say that it is wrong, improper or offensive? What does it matter when you enter the church? Who could possibly criticize you and why? Let's throw procedure to the four winds in your case. Be the first in the church and suggest that your husband or someone be with you so you won't be alone. Be the last ones out too. There is no reason for subjecting you to discomfort, pain, conspicuousness or unhappiness.

Vows Spoken at Chapel In Camp Chilliwack, B.C.

Of interest in Victoria is the wedding which took place in the chapel at Camp Chilliwack, B.C., of Margaret Anne Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brown, of North Battleford, Sask., and Barry Douglas Blair, Royal Canadian Engineers, Camp Chilliwack, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Blair, of Guelph, Ont.

A gown of white peau de soie was worn by the bride, given in marriage by her father. Neckline was trimmed with applique and skirt swept into a semi-train. A sequin headdress held her fingertip veil and she carried a white orchid mounted upon a white Bible.

Maid of honour, Miss Nancy Macmillan, of Winnipeg, Man., wore a claret red gown of de-luxed satin styled on Empire lines. Her headdress was of white feathers and she carried a colonial bouquet of white hyacinths and net. Miss Dorothy Stephenson, Toronto, Ont., wore a similar gown in sapphire blue and little flower girl, Miss Aynsley MacQuarrie, Camp Chilliwack, wore a pale blue nylon frock and carried a nosegay of white hyacinths and carnations.

H. W. Bishop was best man and John Bates, Ken Brown and Norm Henderson were ushers.

Reception for 200 guests was held at RCSME officers' mess, Camp Chilliwack. Mother of the bride wore a Dior blue silk dress with pale peach accessories for receiving guests. Mother of the groom wore a dress of charcoal blue lace with navy accessories. Both had gardenia corsages. Capt. E. W. MacQuarrie proposed the toast to the bride.

For a honeymoon in western Washington, the bride chose a Dior red brushed wool chemise suit with matching hat and black accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The couple will live at Brandon, Man.

Members of the Solarium Junior League add finishing touches to colorful decorations which will transform the Crystal Ballroom at the Empress Hotel into a gay setting for the Mardi Gras Benefit Ball on Friday evening. From the left they are Mrs. R. Walters, in charge of decorations; Mrs. G. Smith, invitations, and Mrs. Elsie Cooley, refreshments. Len Acre's orchestra will play for dancing.

"Who will wear these crowns?" is the question Solarium Junior League members Mrs. R. B. Curran, Mrs. H. Roy and Miss G. Smith may be asking each other as they try the colorful trinkets on "for size." A King and Queen of the Mardi Gras will be chosen by judges at the ball on Friday evening.

Festival on World Scale to Put B.C. On World Culture Map; More Tourists

Vancouver is leaving no stone unturned in its efforts to gain a place on the world culture map this summer. Over 100 featured artists (including some of the world's most famous) and $400,000 will combine to put the first annual Vancouver Festival on a world scale.

Speaking to the Women's Canadian Club Wednesday, director of administration Peter Bennett, said: "It will be more on the lines of the famous Edinburgh Festival than the Stratford Festival, as it will include all the arts instead of just drama."

Because Vancouver is a crossroads of the world, the theme chosen for the festival which takes place July 19 to Aug. 16, will be "Comparing and Contrasting of Cultures of Europe, Asia and the Americas."

Giving a brief outline of the extensive program Mr. Bennett named the national dancers of Ceylon, French mime Marcelle Marceau, world famous conductor Bruno Walter and famous jazz leaders Dizzy Gillespie, Jack Teagarden and Oscar Peterson among the "big names" being imported for the festival.

Canadian artists also being given starring roles in the festival will include Glenn Gould, Lois Marshall, Maureen Forrester and Jon Vickers.

Besides a series of concerts, recitals and plays there will be a production of the opera "Don Giovanni," a book display and an International Film Festival.

"A festival city must be beautiful, easily accessible and already established as a tourist centre," Mr. Bennett said. "It must be able to provide good holiday activities apart from the festival itself. It must have extensive tourist accommodation, and historic buildings."

He told the meeting that Vancouver has all these things plus another important factor: a university. It was the success of UBC's summer school that encouraged formation of the Vancouver Festival committee.

Benefits not only to Vancouver but also to the entire province will be great, Mr. Bennett believes.

"In Stratford, Ont., the percentage of money circulating increased 90 per cent after the festival started," he said. "If people are going to travel to Vancouver for the festival, they will surely cross to Victoria and spend some of their money here."

Work has already begun on 1959 and 1960 Vancouver festivals and it is expected that entire productions from Eastern Canada will be transported to Vancouver for them.

In conclusion, Mr. Bennett said he expects the Vancouver Festival will do for Canadian music what the Stratford Festival has done for Canadian drama.

POLITICAL SCENE

Canadian Women Present Poor Picture in 37 Years

MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian women have had the right to vote since 1921, but their record in political life has been undistinguished, says Hon. Ellen Fairclough, state secretary.

"Our contribution to political life in Canada cannot be compared with the part played by women in India, Israel and France," she told a group of university women this week.

"In the French Parliament, for example, although women only got the franchise in 1944, there were 23 women members in 1946."

Mrs. Fairclough's 1957 appointment as secretary of state in the federal cabinet made her the first woman cabinet member.

However, she said the reason for women's apparent laxity in public affairs might be partly found in the country's geography.

A woman taking up politics in Canada would have to leave off or neglect her home duties in order to be present in Parliament.

Many women—about 1,200 at present—were serving in municipal posts across the country; jobs they could fill without neglecting their home duties.

"Many women, of course, are working a full day outside their homes," said Mrs. Fairclough.

"About one person in every four in Canada's labor force is a woman, and about 40 per cent are married."

Mothers, Babies and Aged Included in VON Program

Service to mothers and babies—a fundamental part of all public nursing—accounted for one quarter of the visits made by Victorian Order of Nurses during the past year.

President of the board, Miss Ruby Simpson announced this fact in her report at the annual meeting in Spencerhouse this afternoon.

Group activities such as parentcraft classes given in co-operation with other health agencies, were popular, Miss Simpson said, and reached larger numbers in less time.

Couples' classes, with both prospective parents attending, and relaxation exercise classes "reflect modern trends," she pointed out.

Miss Simpson's report also showed that the VON is much interested in the "serious problems concerning the aged and chronically ill."

Achievements of board of management included increased pensions, adjustments in salaries, and health insurance inaugurated, Miss Simpson enumerated.

District director Miss Elizabeth Riddell, R.N., reported that eight nurses had made 22,131 visits to 3,000 patients during the year.

There were 14,655 medical and surgical visits; 1,607 received health instruction and 5,864 mothers and babies were visited.

MANY ATTEND
Two hundred and thirty-one registered in prenatal classes; 352 in relaxation exercise classes and 132 in the couples classes.

A student nurse field program was also carried out. Treasurer's report given by A. M. J. Round showed receipts of $50,122.03 and disbursements of $50,600.67.

Fees from visits amounted to $13,483.58 (26.9 per cent of the year's visits were free); provincial and municipal grants amounted to $12,857.50 and the Community Chest grant, $19,399.

A rummage sale realized $1,003.49 and the Junior VON contributed $1,000.

Reports of the nominations committee showed that Miss Simpson is returned as president of the board for another year; Mrs. W. F. Findlay is first vice-president; Mr. Round, second; R. Peachey, secretary; and Mr. Round, treasurer. Honorary president is again Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross.

Saanichton Fair Grant Requested

John Tisdale, Social Credit M.L.A. for Saanich, pleaded with the government Wednesday to make a special $3,000 grant-in-aid to the Saanichton Fair this year.

Mr. Tisdale said the fair will get no share of special centennial funds this year, has previously received only earned grants from the government.

The fair should be supported because it helps the Island dairy industry, which is in "jeopardy," Mr. Tisdale said.

The member said he believes a sound solution can be arrived at in the current complaint by Island dairymen over the loss of their price differential.

Mr. Tisdale also said he wanted to "dissociate" himself from remarks of other government members who had condemned the angry demonstration by 300 farmers at the legislature buildings Monday.

He said the eventual aim of the government should be to "get out of the milk business," and give the producers more control.

On road development in his riding, Mr. Tisdale said that if the federal government extends the runways of Patricia Bay airport across East Saanich Road, it should pay a share

Groupings Made For World Soccer

STOCKHOLM (CP)—Defending champion West Germany, Argentina, Czechoslovakia, and Northern Ireland have been drawn to play against each other in the first group of the 1958 world soccer championships in June.

The International Football Federation also bracketed France, Paraguay, Yugoslavia and Scotland in the second group.

Sweden, Mexico, Hungary and Wales will form the third group, while Austria, Brazil, Soviet Russia and England comprise the fourth.

The matches for the World Soccer Cup will be played in 12 different Swedish cities during the preliminary rounds, narrowing down to the finals here June 29.

Fire Starts in Ship

WELLINGTON, N.S. (Reuters)—The 13,594-ton British freighter, Persic, which left New Zealand Friday carrying 203 valuable stud rams to Chile, Peru, turned back Wednesday after a fire broke out in the sheep's fodder bins.

Jaycees Would Help Victoria Day Group

Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce is considering making an unspecified grant to Greater Victoria Celebrations Association, and is "willing to help them any way we can," chairman Ira Hill said Wednesday.

He was speaking in response to charges at a GVCA meeting Tuesday that the Jaycees were gradually taking over attractions which the GVCA had operated for years.

Mr. Hill said his organization has been willing to co-operate "more and more" with the GVCA. "But every proposal we make, they turn down."

He said the Jaycees had changed the date of the annual fair this year to tie in with the GVCA celebrations, "... at their request."

"We offered to run and help pay for their celebrations, but they refused. They asked to use our May Queen in their celebrations and we agreed. We agreed to arrange the crowning ceremony and meet the expenses."

With regard to charges the Jaycees midway stops operation of a similar attraction by the GVCA, he felt there was room for two midway attractions. The GVCA could still raffle a car, also, he said.

"The executive is considering a grant to the GVCA to help them out. However, it still has to be approved," said Mr. Hill.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 25-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Tommy Sirtler, aged 14, of Somerset, Kentucky, for his question:

What is a Salamander?

You might mistake a small salamander for a lizard. But the lizard has a dry scaly skin and claws on his toes. The salamander has soft, clawless fingers on his feet and his moist skin rates as one of the wonders of nature. It is a breathing organ. What's more, most salamanders are able to breathe oxygen from either air or water.

Salamanders belong to the class Amphibia—the land and water dwellers. Their order is Caudata, the tailed ones. This order distinguishes them from the tailless amphibians—the frogs and toads. Maybe the salamander admires these cousins because they can croak and he has no voice at all. But the salamander has a quality which most animals could envy. He can regrow a lost tail or a whole leg.

The Caudata order includes the pretty newts and efts, the ugly hellgramites, the mud puppies and the so-called Congo eels of southeastern streams. It also includes a large number of plain and fancy salamanders large and small.

Most of the world's salamanders live in Northern America. We have some 125 varieties. The salamander's wonderful skin dictates where he must live, for it must be kept cool and moist. Hence we find him in and near ponds, lakes, streams and rivers. Some varieties live in damp woods and some live in the darkness of cool caves.

In character, the salamander is shy and timid. He avoids trouble by hiding and fleeing. Yet he is a meat eater. He feeds on insects, snails, worms, fish eggs and small fish. The newt is the gadabout of the family. He can endure sunshine and is seen during broad daylight.

Start Life With Gills

Every salamander begins life as an egg, then goes through a larva stage. Some varieties never get beyond the larva stage. The common orange-colored newt lays her eggs in the water. The larvae have gills and stay in the water. The little fellow takes to the moist land when their gills are replaced by lungs. The red-brown dusky salamander lays her eggs in moist ground. When the youngsters are a few days old they make their way to the water.

Each type of salamander lives its own life story. However, all the larvae have gills and teeth. The mud puppy never loses his feathery gills. The newt replaces his baby gills with lungs. The arboral salamander of the Pacific Coast has neither lungs nor gills. The egg is laid on or near the ground. The baby develops little legs before hatching. Throughout life, this salamander breathes air through his skin and through the skin of his mouth and throat.

The giant of the salamander clan lives in China and Japan. He is a huge fellow over five feet long. In captivity, this giant salamander has been known to live half a century. The smallest salamander is a blind fellow, only an inch long. He is a native of the moist spruce forests of the southeastern United States. The hellgramite may be two feet long, the so-called Congo eel may be over a yard long. Most of the salamanders are charming, shy little creatures some three to six inches long.

Andy sends a Hammond's Ambassador World Atlas to Roberta Schupka, age 11, of North Madison, Ohio, for her question:

What is glaciology?

You need only a little detective work to solve the meaning of this word. The last part of it rhymes with biology and geology. It has the same meaning, which is the study of. What is glaciology the study of? The first part of the word spells out the answer.

Glaciology is the study of glaciers and such. It is a branch of geology, the study of the earth's rocks. And glaciers and other icy fingers have had a lot to do with the surface of the earth.

The glaciologist figures out the story of the bitter Ice Ages. He studies the ice and glaciers on the earth today. He is also interested in the effect that glaciers have on living things. He knows which plants and animals can survive in glacial conditions and which cannot.

All this study gives a total picture of glacial ice and what it does to the earth's rocks and living things. Right now, glaciologists are studying the ice cap at the South Pole in detail for the first time.

There is still a good supply of centennial silver dollars available through Victoria's banks, a survey showed today.

All that's needed to get a silver dollar is one dollar, cash. Alex Kienman, president of the Victoria Numismatic Association, said the coins were turning up in the ordinary day's run of cash at many city stores.

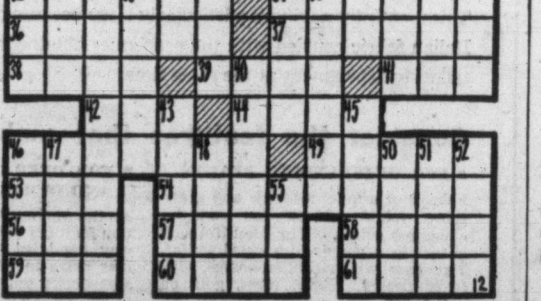

He said they are available from 12 banks. The chief accountant at a downtown bank said there might be a run on the coins during the tourist season, but there are plenty on hand right now.

He said some firms were purchasing them in quantity for promotion use, but the general public should have no trouble acquiring them.

The B.C. centennial committee has reported a flood of letters from U.S. points, asking how to obtain the coins. Most are from coin-collectors. One offered to pay up to $25 for a silver dollar.

In each case, the committee advises the enquirer to order the coins through their own banks.

Prison, Paddle For 2 Robbers

(From CP Dispatches)

CLOVERDALE—Two men who pleaded guilty to charges of robbery with violence have been sentenced to five years in the B.C. penitentiary and five strokes of the paddle.

Donald Merle Verpy, 21, Surrey, and James William Smith, 28, of nearby Burnaby, were sentenced by Magistrate John Hunter. A third man, Daryl Frank Dent, 19, of White Rock, was sentenced to three years for his part in the attack. The three were accused of picking up a hitchhiker, Russell Glen Hudson of Vancouver, when he sought a ride south of Patullo Bridge while making his way to Prince George. They admitted driving Hudson to Langley, forcing him out of their car, beating him and taking his watch and $30.

RETURNING HOME

VANCOUVER—Yu Tsui Mee, the girl who caused a marital storm in Vancouver's Chinatown, leaves here Sunday by air for Hong Kong.

Miss Mee, 19, has been refused entry into the United States, even for the two-hour stopover at Seattle necessary to make connections for the Orient.

Vancouver's Chinatown, second largest Chinese community outside Asia, buzzed with alarm when Miss Mee said last week she did not want to marry her fiancé-by-letter Mah Suey Ning, 21.

Miss Mee had planned to leave last Sunday. Her fare back to Hong Kong will be paid by the jilted Ning, who paid her fare here.

VICTIM IDENTIFIED

PORT MOODY—A Coquitlam man, killed when his car plunged over a 200-foot cliff on the highway near here Tuesday night has been identified as Romeo Joseph Gagne, 52, of Coquitlam.

He was alone in the vehicle, which failed to complete a curve on the Hastings-Barnett highway.

JUVENILES CHARGED

MATSQUI — Four juveniles charged with abducting two girls under the age of consent against their will were remanded until Feb. 17 to await a further probation report when they appeared in Matsqui police court Wednesday for sentence.

The four, Edwin Martens, 17, of Clearbrook; Ray Stanley Friesen, 17, of Sumas; Robert Friesen, 16, of Mt. Lehman and John A. Fehr, 17, of Aldergrove, pleaded guilty to the charge Jan. 31.

The charges were laid after interrogation of the two girls when they returned home after being "missing" for almost a week toward the end of January.

PATIENT GOES BERSERK

VANCOUVER — A 248-pound logger held nine policemen and a host of orderlies at bay for an hour in Shaughnessy Military Hospital here Wednesday night.

With a steel extension bar from the leg of a hospital bed, he smashed a hole through the door of the small room where orderlies had locked him when he went berserk.

The 32-year-old veteran was finally talked into surrendering by friendly police officers.

SPECTACULAR TRUCK CRASH

The chips flew when a laden wood truck overturned on Tye Road at 8.57 a.m. today. Driver Kirpal Singh Basi, 735 Market, who was not injured, was driving south passing another truck driven in the opposite direction when his outside wheels struck a rock outcropping, threw the vehicle out of control and onto its side. Damage was heavy. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

U.K. Has Missile, H-Bombs for Action

British Tories Run Poor Third In By-Election

LONDON (CP)—A shattering defeat in a byelection cast gloom today over Conservative supporters.

The waning popularity of the government headed by Prime Minister Macmillan was pointed up sharply in the Lancashire textile city of Rochdale, Wednesday.

The Conservatives not only lost their grip on the district's House of Commons seat but ran a poor third to both the opposition Labor party and the normally weak Liberals.

Final returns from the voting gave Labor candidate Jack McCann 22,133 votes, Liberal Ludovic Kennedy 17,603, and Conservative John Parkinson 9,827.

HEAVY DEFEAT
Conservative leaders had been reconciled in advance to loss of the seat, but the magnitude of the defeat came as a surprise.

In a straight Conservative-Labor fight in the 1955 general election the Conservative candidate, who died recently, beat McCann 26,518 to 24,928.

The outcome was no great plum in the Labor party's pudding, since it too lost ground. Most of those who previously voted Conservative obviously switched to Kennedy, the Liberal in protest against the government, a trend that has been growing in recent parliamentary byelections.

Labor Leader Hugh Gaitskill called the Rochdale defeat "yet another signal to the government to get out" and claimed the Conservatives have "completely lost the confidence of the people."

The Daily Herald, official organ of the Labor party, asserts: "The voice of the people... tells the Tories in unmistakable tones 'Give up! Get out! and the sooner the better.'"

Smith Fights Cold
OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith today cancelled his engagements for the day and stayed at home to fight a cold.

LONDON (CP)—The government announced today that Britain is developing a ballistic rocket "more advanced" than any the Americans now possess, and is designing it for launching from underground sites.

The government defence statement also said Britain now is making her own hydrogen bombs and is delivering them to the RAF.

In the annual defence report to Parliament, the government said Britain's strategic bomber force, equipped to carry these bombs, would provide a "mobile and flexible form of military power."

The white paper said the new rocket weapon "is being developed on the highest priority in close co-operation" with the United States.

No details of the new rocket were given, but the report said that "strategic rocket weapons of all ranges will in due course be made relatively invulnerable by sitting underground."

It added that the agreement whereby American intermediate-range ballistic missiles will be located in Britain "will be completed shortly."

Regarding the relative strength of the West compared with the Soviet Union, the document said: "Russia's successful launching of artificial satellites is evidence of her remarkable progress in rocket development. But it should not be thought that this has upset the balance of military power."

It claimed that balanced fears in East and West of mutual annihilation makes a world war unlikely "for another generation or more."

The paper said progress is being made with the development of propelled bombs which could be released from a considerable distance, thus making it unnecessary for aircraft to fly into a heavily defended target area.

Dealing with sea power, the report said the British development of a nuclear submarine is proceeding with "the valuable co-operation of the United States."

The government made it clear that the whole conception of Western defence is based on the striking power of nuclear weapons. The white paper said that if the Soviet Union launched a major attack on the West, "even with conventional force only" the Western powers "would have to hit back with strategic nuclear weapons."

The Soviet Union, for geographic reasons, is more vulnerable to rocket attack than are the Western powers, the white paper said, explaining: "The over-all superiority of the West is likely to increase rather than diminish as a consequence of the advent of medium-range ballistic rockets. These weapons, against which there is at present no answer, could from sites in Europe and elsewhere dominate practically the whole of Western Europe."

SNOWBALLS FLORIDA TREAT FOR STUDENTS

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Three inches of snow blanketed Florida's capital, Tallahassee, today. The weather bureau called it possibly the heaviest in history.

Students of Florida State University broke from dormitories Wednesday night and began snowball fights, an experience completely strange to them.

The tourist trade and crops suffered in many southern areas. Schools closed at noon Wednesday in a number of districts.

Mr. Pearson will reach Vancouver Feb. 23, and will address a meeting in the Forum the following day.

He will arrive on Vancouver Island Feb. 25 in time to attend a noon meeting in Nanaimo, and will stop in Duncan for afternoon tea on his way to Victoria.

He will be accompanied on his visit here—a part of a speaking tour through western Canada—by Mrs. Pearson, his press liaison officer, John Payne of Winnipeg, and 10 newsmen.

HELPLESS ON CANYON LEDGE

Trapped Boy Still Alive, Weak Motion Spurs Rescue

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—A weak hand wave from a boy lying helpless on a ledge in a snowy canyon spurred efforts today to reach him while he is still alive.

Fourteen-year-old Donald Burns fell 300 feet into the steep-sided, 900-foot-deep canyon Wednesday while on a hike. Wednesday night there was a chilling fog, rain and snow.

This morning rescuers peering down from the lip of the canyon saw the lad wave feebly. This was the first sign of life they had seen since darkness set in, when he cried and waved.

Four mountaineers descended the canyon slopes on ropes, while another team, using alpine gear, worked its way up from the bottom.

The canyon is at the 5,000-foot level on the 11,485-foot mount San Geronio 35 miles east of here.

A sheriff's deputy who took part Wednesday night in the rescue attempt said Donald Burns was lying in a grotesque position, as though he had suffered bone fractures, when the officer spotted him with the aid of a portable searchlight. The boy's cries indicated that he had broken a leg.

Burns, of nearby Colton, was hiking with schoolmates Wednesday when he slipped on an icy trail at the top of big falls. He fell with the cascading water about 100 feet to a ledge, then the falling water pushed him from the ledge and he fell another 200 feet to the bottom of the canyon.

The boy waved and yelled intermittently for five hours after the fall, then was silent. There was no way to get into the canyon except by going down the side of the cliff.

CADDY MAKES RETURN TO MARK CENTENARY

Cadborosaurus, Victoria's friendly sea-serpent, made his first appearance of the centennial year for the benefit of four carpenters Wednesday.

The men said today that "Caddy" made two appearances while they were working on a new house at the foot of Monarch Place, Gordon Head, near the new Solarium.

All they saw was his head. One described it as being pig-like. The other three said it was more like a horse. All agreed it was orange in color.

Those who saw "Caddy" were: Ron Preece, John Krilow, Brian Paine and Al Wedman.

Low Predicts New Stalemate

Likelihood of another national political stalemate after the March 31 general election was foreseen here today by Social Credit Leader Solon Low.

The province of Quebec holds the "key" to whether there will be a majority or minority government in Ottawa, Mr. Low said in an interview.

The national leader said he believes Social Credit has a "good chance" of increasing its 19 seats in Parliament.

He looks for increased representation in both B.C. and Alberta, where the party now holds all its seats, and hopes to crack into Manitoba and Saskatchewan for the first time.

Mr. Low indicated that Social Credit may field less than the 116 candidates across the country it had last June.

"We don't want to spread ourselves too thinly," he said.

'ILL-TIMED'
Mr. Low admitted that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's election call, which he said was "ill-timed," caught the party short.

It had been planned to hold three regional Social Credit conventions across the country and wind up with a national gathering before the election.

Mr. Low will announce the platform at a press conference in Edmonton next Friday.

"We'll try to set down in writing what is best for the country, ahead of party interests," he said.

The Liberals, Conservatives and CCF "have gone crazy in an auction sale, trying to outbid each other," Mr. Low said. Social Credit won't enter this contest, he said.

The Social Credit chieftain charged new Liberal leader Lester Pearson with a "most patent" attempt to outbid the Conservative platform.

"The people of the country are fed up with the sham battle between the old-line parties and are looking for a new approach," Mr. Low said. "We think we have it, because we know the people don't want Socialism."

Mr. Low accused Mr. Diefenbaker of violating the rights of parliament by announcing the government would appropriate money for a $250,000,000 works program without consulting the Commons.

"It is one of the most serious things I have seen in my political career," Mr. Low said. "The worst offence against parliament is to try and get along without parliament, and that's what he (Diefenbaker) is doing."

Mr. Low met with Premier Bennett and other cabinet ministers at noon, before returning to the mainland this afternoon.

He will make his first speech of the federal campaign at Burnaby-Coquitlam nominating convention tonight and attend the B.C.-Alberta regional conference in Vancouver Friday and Saturday.

Mr. Low explained that no one was on hand to meet him at Patricia Bay airport late Wednesday night because he had flown directly from Edmonton without advising anyone here of his travelling plans.

ON ELECTION FRONT

Four Leaders Swing Into Hot Campaign

By The Canadian Press
The campaign for the March 31 federal general election has moved from the training camps into the ring.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker Wednesday night in Winnipeg doffed his robe and swung his keynote punch at the Liberals.

Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson also set off on the campaign trail Wednesday night in search of his first mandate and promising a "good fight for" we have something to fight for.

Mr. Pearson labelled his an "unemployment crash program," to reduce the number of jobless by priming the economic pump and pouring new spending power into consumers' pockets.

Social Credit Leader Solon Low (in Victoria today) viewed the campaign from Edmonton Wednesday not so much as a "box social" affair as a "box social" affair with the Liberals and Tories competing only to see who can promise the most.

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell was to leave by train from Ottawa tonight for Saskatchewan. He will make his initial big speech in his home constituency of Rosetown-Biggar Saturday.

Former Lumber Firm Official Gives Testimony

By JOHN MIKA, Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—The former chief financial officer of B.C. Forest Products Ltd. testified today he refused to arrange for transfer of $30,000 to a "Wick Gray" to be paid "all or in part" to Robert E. Sommers in "such a way that it couldn't be traced."

The disclosure was made at the preliminary hearing here of conspiracy and bribery charges against former lands and forests minister Sommers and seven other defendants.

They are: C. D. Schultz and C. D. Schultz Co. Ltd., H. Wilson Gray and John M. Gray, B.C. Forest Products, Evergreen Lumber Sales Ltd., and Pacific Coast Services Ltd.

T. L. Daniels, chartered accountant who worked for BCFP between 1946 and December, 1954, said the proposal was made to him in 1953 by the late Hector G. Munro, previous president of the company.

The proposal was made shortly after Mr. Munro returned from a trip to Toronto. Mr. Daniels earlier said $25,000 in small bills had been paid to the "Mr. Gray" for travelling expenses of Mr. and Mrs. Sommers to Toronto.

"Shortly after his (Mr. Munro) return from Toronto, he called me to his room and told me arrangements had been made in Toronto to obtain a forest management licence."

"But the company would have to provide $30,000 to Mr. Wick Gray to be transferred all or in part to Mr. Sommers."

Transfer That Couldn't Be Traced
"He wanted me to arrange for the money being transferred in such a way that it couldn't be traced. I told him it was a very foolish thing. I had a spat and left the room."

Shortly after, a $15,000 cheque was drawn for Pacific Coast Services, but Mr. Daniels said he could not remember whether an invoice relating to the transaction was received before or after the cheque was drawn.

A second cheque for $15,000 was drawn for PCS later. The money was charged to the engineering and cruising expense of BCFP's central logging division. This was followed by a contract under which BCFP was to pay PCS a $1,000 monthly retainer for certain services.

Mr. Daniels earlier said that on Oct. 29, 1953, Mr. Munro "asked me to draw a cheque for $2,500 in cash and to charge it to political donations."

"Some while after I handed him this cheque and he handed it back to me and asked me to cash it in small bills not over $50. I went down and if my memory is correct, I drew 30 $20 bills, and 30 $50 bills."

"I gave it to Mr. Munro, and he handed it back and told me to put it in my office safe. I asked him for what purpose the money was to be used."

Later he said that he subsequently learned Mr. Gray was connected with Pacific Coast Services.

When Mr. Munro returned from Toronto the voucher bore an additional signature of a man identified by Mr. Munro to Mr. Daniels as a vice-president of the firm with an office in Toronto.

Mr. Daniels testified he told Mr. Munro he believed that the "business of Pacific Coast Services was not on the level." He had also told the company president that the same "situation existed in the Schultz Company."

Prosecutor Says Firms
Ignorant of Bribe Plot

VANCOUVER — A plot was hatched to bribe former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers although two lumber companies putting up the money didn't know about it, a preliminary hearing here was told Wednesday.

"That's what I'm going to try to show," prosecutor Stewart McMorran said during one of several battles with defence counsel as he tried to enter most of a scheduled 719 documents as evidence.

Only 52 of 410 documents filed the first day were admitted as exhibits by Magistrate Oscar Orr. The remainder stayed on the file for identification purposes only. Defence counsel objections to their admission indicated the prosecution will have to go all the way in proving their validity.

Arguments over relevancy of documents to the case and defence demands for more particulars in the six-count charge of conspiracy and bribery highlighted the opening session after defendants elected jury trials.

The charges arise out of allegations made two years ago that bribes were used to obtain forest management licences while Mr. Sommers was minister. The hearing will decide whether there is enough evidence to warrant a trial of the charges against:

Mr. Sommers, Social Credit MLA for Rossland-Trail; C. D. Schultz and C. D. Schultz Co. Ltd.; H. Wilson Gray and Pacific Coast Services Ltd.; John M. Gray and Evergreen Lumber Sales Ltd.; and B.C. Forest Products Ltd.

John D. Answers Pearson; Boosts Development Plan

WINNIPEG (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker started his election campaign Wednesday night with a speech outlining a proposed national development program that he said would make jobs for hundreds of thousands of Canadians.

He received a friendly reception from a crowd estimated at more than 4,900 persons who packed the big Civic Auditorium and an overflow hall where he could be heard but not seen.

An auditorium official said about 300 were turned away. The crowd was particularly enthusiastic when he tossed verbal jabs at the Liberals. He painted a glowing picture of the development planned if the Progressive Conservatives were returned to power with a clear majority in the Commons.

He touched only briefly on agriculture but indicated his main farm speech would be delivered in Saskatoon, where he was to arrive today.

For Liberal criticism of the way the Conservatives had handled such things as unemployment and tax cuts, Mr. Diefenbaker had the rejoinder:

"Why didn't they do it when?" He reiterated this question several times throughout his speech, explaining at one point that he meant, "why didn't they do it when they were in power?"

Referring to the promises made in the Liberal campaign platform announced Monday by Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson, he said scornfully: "What was hereby to them in June has become policy in February."

Mr. Diefenbaker emphasized the North as he talked about Continued on Page 2

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Those of us who enjoy a drink and those who don't felt more than a twinge of sympathy with John Tisdalle, the gallant little man from Saanich, when he burst forth with a ringing denunciation of liquor behind the wheel.

"I am fed up," he cried, "with people who cherish human life so little that they think of their drink first and their driving second. Can you replace a human life with a bottle of Scotch?"

No doubt George Gregory, the conscientious Liberal member for Victoria, felt much the same as Mr. Tisdalle. But he could not resist the temptation to take a crack at Highways Minister Gagliardi who does not drink but sometimes displays a taste for speed.

"What about testing curves?" asked Mr. Gregory, alluding to the time Mr. Gagliardi made that his excuse for speeding on a provincial highway.

"I don't mind a fellow testing curves as long as he is sober," retorted Mr. Tisdalle, evoking a thunder of applause from the government benches and a wise, Pharaoh-like smile from Mr. Gagliardi.

And this brought us to the subject of vodka—the fiery Russian brew.

"It would be the worst thing for this province if vodka became a national drink," declared Mr. Tisdalle. "I am sure the Russians would like to export it to us so they could muddle the brains of the opposition."

Then, reverting to a more popular beverage, he said: "Whisky at the wheel is no better than a loose nut." (Loud laughter.)

Mr. Tisdalle had a glass of milk on his desk and he raised it in a toast to the Island dairy farmers who staged a demonstration in the legislature Monday.

He pleaded for a sympathetic attitude towards the farmers in their protest against the lower price differential paid to them.

"They did us no harm," he said. "I felt as much at home with them in this house as if they were my own family. Let's try and see things from their point of view."

When members of the Government are speaking, Premier Bennett looks around him with a challenging look that seems to say: "How can you doubt what these fine men—my boys—are telling you?"

And when he swivels his chair round to talk to immediate neighbors in the cabinet he wears the magnanimous expression of a father talking to his favorite sons.

To be truthful, there is no one quite like him in the British Commonwealth . . . or anywhere else.

By contrast with last Monday's carnival hostilities—the cow on the steps and angry farmers shouting in the lobby—the latter part of Wednesday's proceedings had the atmosphere of an afternoon in the card room of the Union Club.

Cedric Cox, the clear-spoken CCF member from Burnaby, twitted the government over its propaganda in the by-election which gave him the seat formerly held by his father-in-law, the late Ernest Winch.

"They had a Social Credit candidate on the air or on TV every day," he said. "Where does the money come from?" "Where does it come from?" quipped Premier Bennett, his smile bellying the politician's thrust.

"From the people," answered CCF leader Bob Strachan, but the Premier didn't look convinced.

Earlier, the legislature heard defence and criticism of its correctional institutes.

Elmore Philpott Again Nominated

VANCOUVER (CP)—Elmore Philpott, Vancouver newspaper columnist and formerly Liberal member of parliament for Vancouver South, was nominated again for that constituency Wednesday night at an uncontested convention.

He was defeated last June by Conservative Ernie Broome after serving one term in the Commons.

Canadian development. He mentioned his hopes for a "self-governing North."

Under the development plan would come:

1. Arctic research and exploration of the Arctic archipelago aimed at developing resources that Canadians have little realization of.

2. A $100,000,000 roads program in the Yukon and Northwest Territories to allow exploration of new mineral areas.

3. A federal-provincial plan to build access roads to the North, tying in with roads in the territories. It would cost $75,000,000 and perhaps twice that if all provinces joined.

4. Aid to economically sound railway projects, such as the proposed line from northern Alberta to Pine Point on Great Slave Lake.

5. A $75,000,000 development at the northern community of Frobisher Bay on Baffin Island.

The program would mean jobs for "hundreds of thousands of Canadians" and would open the way for investment "by Canadian and foreign investors of hundreds of millions of dollars."

SET CONSERVATION POLICY

Mr. Diefenbaker said the government planned to call a national conservation conference late in the year to map a national conservation policy.

"I believe that negotiations are not far away for the commencement of the South Saskatchewan River dam and irrigation project," he said.

The Conservative government would press for development of hydro-electric power on the Columbia River and has in mind a possible second Trans-Canada highway route across Western Canada through Saskatoon and Edmonton.

The prime minister indicated Progressive Conservative disapproval of "American companies that do not give to Canadian plants their fair share of the export business."

"They spoke like lions—they voted like lambs," he said of the Liberal members of the Commons.

In a biting comment on the want-of-confidence motion put forward by the Liberals after Mr. Pearson was named party leader, the prime minister wondered who had "fathered" the resolution.

"No one without assistance could have produced anything equally stupid," he said. "They said to us, 'resign, but don't have an election.'"

"They said I called an election because I feared to face responsibility," said the prime minister. "My answer to those who hold that belief is simply that I do not believe that to trust the people is ever evidence of fear."

every target of importance in the Soviet Union.

"The possession by Russia of rockets of equal range will not, for reasons of geography, afford her any corresponding strategic advantage. It would be of no use to her to attack Western Europe unless she could simultaneously knock out the vital strategic U.S. air bases."

"She could at present have no reasonable hope of achieving this with manned bombers and it will take her several years to complete the development of an accurate intercontinental rocket and produce it in sufficient numbers."

Even when the Soviet Union had produced sufficient numbers of intercontinental missiles there could be for her "no certainty of the success of an attack" by such weapons on the far-flung targets of the West.

The white paper also said:

"The one thing which might conceivably tempt the Soviet Union into military adventure would be the erroneous belief that the West, if attacked, would flinch from using its nuclear power."

"The West relies for its defence primarily upon the deterrent effect of its vast stockpile of nuclear weapons and its capacity to deliver them. The democratic Western nations will never start a war against Russia."

"But it must be well understood that if Russia were to launch a major attack on them, even with conventional forces only, they would have to hit back with strategic nuclear weapons."

"The strategy of NATO is based on the frank recognition that a full-scale Soviet attack could not be repelled without resort to a massive nuclear bombardment of the sources of power in Russia."

"In that event the role of the allied defence forces in Europe would be to hold the front for the time needed to allow the effects of the nuclear counter-offensive to make themselves felt."

"So long as the effectiveness of the nuclear deterrent is maintained, it is probable that global war can be averted."

pare an application for a forest management licence.

The witness said he had "a terrible row" with the late Mr. Munro over the matter and had finally resigned his position effective Dec. 31, 1954.

Prior to leaving the firm, he had told Mr. Munro he would be willing to continue on in his job if Mr. Munro would cancel the contracts with Pacific Coast Service Limited and the Schultz Company.

But Mr. Munro had said "he couldn't do that, that he was committed to his course." He said the B.C. Forest Products Company president seemed to fear something.

Defence counsel objected strongly to this statement, but the witness was finally permitted to continue.

He added that Mr. Munro expressed "the view that life could be made difficult for him in operation of the (forestry management) licence if he didn't carry on with the present arrangements."

The testimony was entered under repeated objections by defence counsel. Prosecutor Stewart McMorran at one point interjected:

"Everyone's struggling to keep this out."

Magistrate Oscar Orr told defence counsel that he would have the testimony struck off the record if it was not linked up to the charge. But he pointed out Mr. Munro was mentioned in the charge.

First witness this morning

F. E. Frederiksen, president of Tahsis Ltd., identified 18 cheques of $2,000 each as payment of monthly retainers by his company to C. D. Schultz Ltd. for work connected with forest management licences. Wednesday he had identified eight similar cheques. The documents were entered as exhibits.

Prosecutor McMorran indicated at the start of today's session that he believed Mr. Sommers was required under the law to attend the preliminary hearing. Mr. Sommers Wednesday was excused so he could attend the current session of the Legislature. Magistrate Orr said he would hear arguments later today on the question.

AUSSIE WANTS QUEEN TO MAKE MOSCOW VISIT

MELBOURNE (AP)—Eric Westbrook, director of the Melbourne National Gallery, suggested today that Queen Elizabeth visit Moscow. Speaking at a luncheon of the Royal Empire Society, he said the Queen, with her charm, would delight the Russian people, who are "fundamentally lovers of royalty."

JOBS TORY TARGET

$20 Million Plan Mapped for B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Public Works Minister Howard Green announced Wednesday a $20,000,000 federal spending program for British Columbia.

He told a press conference it will be part of the government's speeded-up construction program aimed at providing jobs for unemployed.

About $9,000,000 will be spent on new buildings and harbor work in B.C. and about $11,000,000 on highway construction.

The projects include a $4,000,000 wing for Vancouver's Shaughnessy Veterans' Hospital, a $2,000,000 science services laboratory for the agriculture department at the University of B.C., a $1,000,000 Indian school and dormitory at Mission, a $500,000 renovation program for an old federal building here and a similar program at the Chilliwack army base.

EFFECTIVE WEAPON

Mr. Green, member for Vancouver-Quadra in the last House, said the Conservative government's most effective weapon against unemployment so far has been its housing program.

"This program has been of tremendous significance in pulling the housing industry out of its slump," he said. "The result has been that 1957, which looked like a bad year for housing, turned out to be one of the best."

Early forecasts last year were for 116,000 housing starts, but the actual number was 122,000 and the government was aiming for a record 140,000 starts this year.

Separate from the $20,000,000 to B.C., Mr. Green said, was a $6,000,000 program for highway construction in Glacier National Park, on the Alberta-Montana border.

The $11,000,000 for highway construction will go towards B.C.'s share of the Trans-Canada Highway. He said the amount represents about 25 per cent of the over-all total for Canada.

July 1 Set To Complete Sunday School

Work on a new $13,000 Sunday school at the corner of Gosworth and Burton is expected to be completed by July 1.

Built largely by volunteer labor the structure was started in December, 1956, and, when finished, will increase seating capacity from 95 to approximately 150.

In charge of the project is the five-member Gosworth Sunday School Society headed by W. Clayton Cronk, former superintendent.

Among the volunteer groups assisting in the work is the Kiwanis Club of Victoria North which has undertaken to lay the hardwood floor.

Also on the Sunday school committee in charge of raising funds and co-ordinating the work are: Clifford Salmon, present superintendent; Percy Willis, Joe Hitchen and Frank Hunter.

Federal Works to Help Wide Section of Island

Almost every section of Vancouver Island will benefit from a $1,500,000 program of public works announced in Vancouver Wednesday night by Public Works Minister Howard Green. Funds have been included in estimates and approved by the treasury board, he said, so work will not be held up while awaiting approval of Commons.

Specific projects are: Campbell River, $225,000 for public buildings and $65,000 for harbor works; Comox, $40,000 for public buildings, $250,000 for improved post office facilities and $26,000 for a breakwater; Port Alberni, $350,000 for public buildings, $62,000 for wharf repairs and $47,000 for improvements to the fishing harbor; Sidney, $65,000 for additions and alterations to public buildings; Chemainus, $30,000 for harbor works; Ladysmith, $129,000 for a boat harbor; Nanaimo, $125,000 for wharf extensions; Uchuelet, harbor works. (An additional project was announced in Montreal by Transport Minister George Hees, who said tenders will be called shortly for a new terminal building at Port Hardy airport.)

Several of the projects announced by Mr. Green, such as the Ladysmith boat harbor, Nanaimo assembly wharf extensions, and Port Alberni post office, will mark the end of vigorous campaigns by local groups for the improvements.

TIRE AND DREARY in comparison with modern schools, North Ward is candidate for demolition in next school-building program, according to school officials. It is almost 70 years old, partly condemned.

NORTH WARD SCHOOL DOOMED

Long Range Plan Outlined

By PETE LOUDON
Victoria's North Ward elementary school likely will be the next pioneer hall of learning to fall to the wreckers' hammer.

Victoria West and South Park Schools appear headed for the same fate, but they probably will be rebuilt on the same sites. North Ward however is not longer in an area suited for school purposes. The present thinking calls for a new school in the Quadra-Kings-Bay Street area instead.

The long-range picture was drawn Wednesday for the Times by Greater Victoria School Board buildings and grounds supervisor, R. Hamilton Smith. Mr. Smith points out none of the three schools mentioned is slated for improvement in the current school building program. That program extends until 1960.

But when the next program is introduced (and the demand for more and improved school buildings is still on the increase), Mr. Smith feels some thought should be given to replacing these aged buildings.

North Ward, South Park and Victoria West Schools all were built around 1890. Nearing the 70-year mark, they are entitled to full retirement.

"North Ward's top floor has been closed off and condemned for normal use as long as I can remember," says Mr. Smith. He says it was meant for use as an auditorium, but was partitioned with a diagonally-braced wall, as a safety measure.

The school now gives instruction to only about 320 youngsters. Others enrolled at North Ward attend a small annex on Quadra near Kings. The annex also would be replaced under Mr. Smith's plan.

TRUSTEES AGREE
The scheme for replacing North Ward isn't Mr. Smith's alone. He knows school trustees generally have the same thoughts.

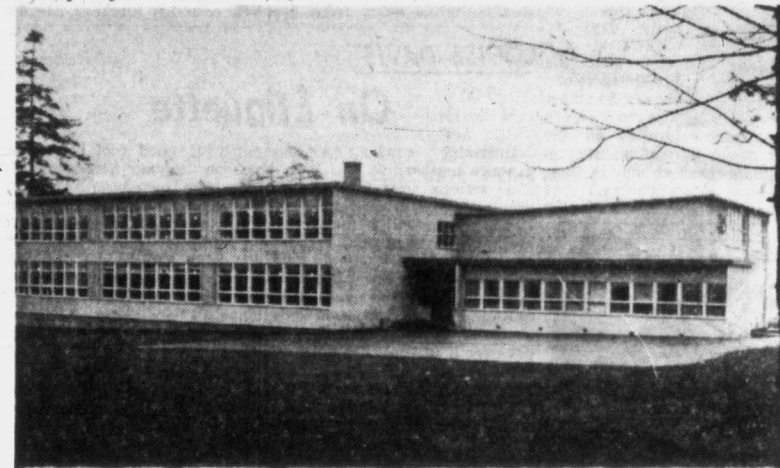

All three of the old schools are troubled with the afflictions of age—unsatisfactory plumbing, difficult heating, insufficient natural light and insufficient play area.

Children at North Ward have a play area bereft of grass, partly hard-topped and without a self-contained football or softball field. The school was once in a residential area. Now it faces Victoria's busiest artery—Douglas Street, the Trans-Canada Highway.

It is in the heart of a business and industrial area and the site has a commercial value far beyond other schools.

Returned to the city, it would be a rich plum to offer on the real estate market—might be ideal for a department store or new city hall.

The current school building program is still far from completed, however, and North Ward will have to wait its turn. Chances are its removal will have heavy support in about three years.

BRIGHT AND CHEERY, Macaulay Street elementary is representative of new look in schools, serves as many children as old North Ward.

Scion Of Old Saanich Family Laid To Rest

John George Thomson, last surviving son of the Saanich Peninsula pioneer William Thomson, was buried in St. Stephen's Church cemetery, Mount Newton Cross Road, Tuesday.

He would have been 87 next August. William Thomson settled in Saanich Peninsula in 1855 after being shipwrecked off the west coast of Vancouver Island, and built the historic homestead known as Bannockburn on a tree-shaded hill on Mount Newton Cross Road in Central Saanich.

This was one of the first homes to be built on the island.

LAST OF SONS
John Thomson was the last of William Thomson's six sons, but was survived by the widow, formerly Mary Pearce of Courtenay, and a sister, Mrs. H. S. Hughes, of Mount Newton Cross Road.

He also leaves a son, Robert Thomson in Vancouver; three daughters, Mrs. W. Giles, Langford; Mrs. D. Montgomery, Comox, and Mrs. A. Hogue, Vancouver.

In his early life he worked as section foreman on the Esquimalt and Nanaimo Railway at Langford. Then went to South Africa and worked on the Rand Railway.

He returned to Saanich in 1904 and for several years operated a diamond drill with the Wellington Colliery Company.

Then he took over the Bannockburn farm from his elder brother, the late Alex Thomson, in 1932 and operated it until he sold out to Woodward's in 1952.

After selling the farm, he retained a few acres and built the home where the widow is still living.

2 Youths Jailed After Admitting Laundry Burglary
Two Victoria youths were sentenced in County Court Wednesday after they admitted breaking into the Economy Steam Laundry Ltd., 607 John Street, last month.

Norman Karl McKenzie, 20, of 1035 Empress, was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary; Ronald Leslie McMeekin, 18, of 1906 Birch, was sent to New Haven for six months definite and one year indeterminate.

A third youth has already been sentenced for his part in the break-in, and a fourth, Harry Hoskin of Mount Newton Cross Road, is out on bail of $2,500, awaiting trial in the Assize Court.

Highway Promise Allegedly Broken

Endorsing a resolution requesting the government for a larger share of its road building program, delegates attending a Nanaimo monthly meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island Wednesday, criticized Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi for failing to carry out his promise of extending Island highways.

Arnold Webb, secretary-manager of the Victoria Chamber who attended the meeting, today said delegates were of the unanimous opinion that Mr. Gagliardi has done nothing or little to extend or improve highways in various districts of the island.

Delegates were annoyed at the indefinite answers provided by the highways minister to questions in a letter from ACCVI last December, he said.

The letter asked the minister when road and bridge construction would start on the island. Mr. Gagliardi's reply was "when funds are available."

Mr. Webb said a resolution was also passed asking that roads through logging claims be widened to 24 feet and opened 24 hours a day to the public.

Roads leading to Long Beach, West Coast of Vancouver Island, from Alberni, and the Shewan Lake road to Port Renfrew, are closed to the public during working hours of the week.

They are open to the public after 4:30 p.m., and on weekends.

Mr. Webb said former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers had definitely promised that these logging roads would be opened to the public 24 hours a day.

"At that time Mr. Sommers was speaking for the government," he said. "This promise has never been carried out."

$63,000 Building For St. Luke's
A $63,000 program of building and improvements at St. Luke's Anglican Church, Cedar Hill Cross Road, was authorized at the annual meeting of the church Wednesday night.

It was announced today by Capt. C. F. Gibson, rector's warden, that $25,000 will be spent on the church, $30,000 on the adjacent church hall, and $8,000 for a new organ.

Aim of the congregation is to have the improvements fully paid for by 1960, when the church will mark its 100th birthday anniversary, and a program of fund-raising activities will be prepared almost immediately.

City May Reject Saanich Plans For Marine Drive
A Saanich council plan to construct a marine drive along the west shore of Elk Lake was expected to be scuttled by Victoria city council later today.

In order to provide a right-of-way, Saanich would have to buy a strip of land which is privately-owned, as well as a strip of city-owned land which parallels the lake shore.

City council public works committee has recommended to council the sale of the land to Saanich be declined.

The committee also recommends the property which is privately-owned, the same land Saanich council has been eyeing.

It is expected the privately-owned land is included in an over-all plan for development of Beaver-Elk Lake Park as a centennial project.

Construction of the proposed Saanich road could mean development of the adjacent area as a residential subdivision, while the city plan would preserve the area for public use in perpetuity.

City Set to Purchase New Fire Hall Site

Property Located At Camosun, Yates

Victoria city council is ready to proceed with $90,000 in property purchases at Camosun and Yates for a new fire hall, it was reliably reported today.

The matter was expected to be approved by council either later today or at a special council meeting next week.

Fire wardens committee has been dickering for options for several weeks. It is now understood agreement has been reached with property-owners and authority to close the deals will now be asked by the committee.

TO MOVE HOMES
Under the over-all scheme, it is intended to move some of the homes on the site to a new property subdivision at Chambers and Pandora, formerly a storage yard for the city water works department.

Through sale of the homes on their new location, the committee hopes to realize $30,000, thereby reducing the outlay for the fire hall site.

Acting-mayor M. H. Mooney could not confirm the arrangements today and said he favored a special council session "next week" to discuss the move.

MOONEY OPPOSED
Ald. Mooney said he still opposes erection of a new hall on the Camosun site. "It will kill the neighborhood for apartment sites."

"However, I'd sure like to get it cleared up before the mayor comes back, even though I oppose it. And if council feels it is in the best interests of the city, I'll go along."

Council earlier approved a $325,000 expenditure for the new fire hall. Fire wardens feel the property switch now planned will leave sufficient funds in the appropriation from reversioned property sales fund, to construct the hall.

Full-Time Commissioner Named for Victoria Scouts

Appointment of a new full-time executive commissioner was announced today by Victoria Boy Scouts Association executive.

The post will be filled by James Blain, 31, who will come here from Vancouver to assume duties April 1.

Mr. Blain takes over from Robert Milks who recently moved to Toronto. Mr. Blain has been in professional scouting for 10 years and has 23 years Scouting experience.

Born and educated in South Burnaby, he has recently served as field commissioner for Scouts on northern Vancouver Island for two years. He is married with three children.

Export---Or Expire?
Flew over to Vancouver to attend a UBC meeting yesterday, and thought I'd drop into the hotel to hear John Valentine Clynne make his first public address since he took over as chief of MacMillan & Bloedel.

About 1,000 other men had the same idea. There's a lot of interest in Clynne in Vancouver. Why he left the bench, after seven years, to take the top post in B.C. industry?

Mr. Clynne answered the question at the outset. He wanted to be "more active." He felt the time had come to give up "the austere and somewhat remote" life of the bench.

In short (though he didn't say this), he was bored. And boredom can be shattering for the possessor of a restless and inquiring intellect.

A great many of the guests in the V-100 Vancouver ballroom went to the luncheon, doubtless intrigued by the title of Clynne's talk: "The Path to Economic Suicide."

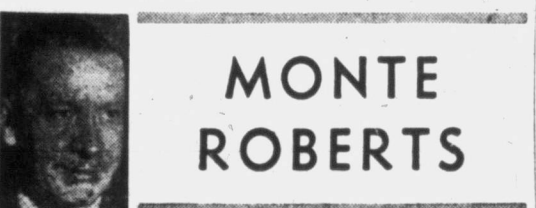

What they heard was a cogent lawyer's brief, moderately stated but nonetheless clear in its import: we're going to go broke in B.C. if we price ourselves out of the market.

The fact that our province depends on export markets, and that we are compelled to ship high-quality products over thousands of miles, "should be stamped indelibly on every business man, every union leader and every school child in B.C."

He suggested that procedures and personnel of conciliating boards could be improved. But a lumberman sitting next to me whispered: "Only two ways to do it—education and labor courts."

When it was all over, Clynne got an ovation. "The best speech Vancouver has heard in 10 years," somebody commented.

Was labor listening? It remains to be seen. But one thing emerged from the meeting: industry has acquired a strong new voice in Jack Clynne. He is a man who does his homework, and comes to class prepared.

MONTE ROBERTS

People keep asking me, why don't I grow a beard to celebrate Centennial year? People tell me, men all over this, the fairest province of them all, are growing beards like mad.

People insist it is not patriotic to not grow a beard, and, indeed, it is practically subversive to go about with one's chin uncluttered with whiskers.

People say, if you are worried about how you will look, take a peek at the picture on top of your space in The Times.

A beard starting at the top of my forehead and ending at my shoulders would improve my appearance, that's what people insist.

Well, it is quite possible people are right, and I should grow a beard, either to celebrate the centennial or to give onlookers something more appetizing on which to look than my present (you should forgive the expression) physiognomy.

But I am faced with problems when it comes to growing a beard.

In the first place, I do not understand the difference between growing a beard and not shaving.

If I entered a beard-growing contest, how would I know whether or not I was abiding by the rules?

In a beard-growing contest, you are expected to grow a beard.

Yet if I entered such a contest, how could I be sure I wasn't cheating by simply not shaving?

You know how much I hate the negative approach. Growing a beard is positive. Not shaving is negative.

I would be terribly afraid I'd accentuate the negative instead of the positive, thus inducing inferiority complexes and all sorts of dread neuroses.

Another thing, when I gaze reluctantly into the shaving mirror in the morning, what do I see sprouting?

I see WHITE bristles. Not GREY bristles. I would not mind going around behind a long GREY beard, but I do not wish to go around behind a long WHITE beard.

And another factor, when I grow a beard (or don't shave, whichever it is) the beard itches.

So you see, I really don't know enough about beard growing to go in for it seriously.

Besides, My Favorite Wife won't let me.

Two Bootleggers Fined $300 Each With Jail Option

Two men each were fined $300 or three months hard labor when they pleaded guilty in city police court today to bootlegging charges.

Police said they bought some beer at 538 Fisgard, opposite the police station, the premises of Wong Ying. A search disclosed 13 dozen beer, 37 full bottles and two-part bottles of liquor in a street level meat market.

Further searching turned up 28 bottles of liquor and two dozen beer in an upstairs cafe.

The second charge was answered by T. Gaston Jaquet, 1419 Craddock, who police said sold an officer two 13-ounce bottles of rye whisky at 1711 Douglas.

A "workshop" for operators of boarding homes looking after elderly persons will start here March 11, under auspices of the Silver Threads Service, it was announced today by Glen Hamilton, executive director of the service.

It will consist of four lectures, and will be the first undertaking of its kind ever launched here.

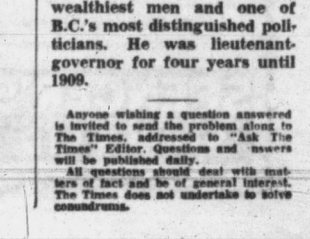

An appeal will be made by the local Unemployment Insurance Commission against the decision of the boards of referees in Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster to uphold the demands of construction workers for unemployment insurance.

Umpire of the Unemployment Insurance Commission in Ottawa, the Hon. Mr. Justice J. C. A. Cameron will be asked to review the rulings passed by boards of referees whereby construction workers employed in plants influenced by the recent pulp and paper workers strike would be given compensatory pay.

Nine-year-old Aleda Lowman, 137 Barkley, was taken to hospital with bruises after the car in which she was riding was in collision with another at Fort and Craigdarroch at 8:45 a.m. today.

The girl was checked at Jubilee Hospital emergency and discharged.

Police said a car driven east on Fort by Douglas O. Mylrea, 1903 Duchess, stopped suddenly for a pedestrian in the crosswalk at Craigdarroch and was struck on the rear by a car also driven east by August Lowman. Damage was slight.

For a True Taste Treat Let's Try Chocolate Ants!

By PENNY SAVER

How would you like to try a chocolate ant? That's the decision I was faced with the other night at a party. The hostess insisted they were good—and they were. She told me where to buy them, too, and that a can of the unusual (to say the least) confections cost 77 cents. Any way you look at it, they would be a sure party stopper—if that's what you are looking for.

Another taste treat I was offered at the party was a solitary silk worm posed on top of a lump of blue cheese on the top of a cracker! U-m-m-m! Good! Getting back to more ordinary specialties, I found some imported Danish sardines preserved in curry. Spread on small slices of garlic toast they'd be delicious at your next cocktail or tea party. Cans of the sardines come at 27 cents.

There are many kinds of dehydrated soups! But you can bet there is nothing in the world like European dehydrated soups for taste and economy. # "WIDOWHOOD"

The Lonely Road

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

This is the second in a series of articles dealing with the problems of widowhood.

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

However painful the process may be, the widow must accept the utter finality of death and go on from there to maintain mental stability.

Nothing you can say or do will bring him back. There is no other course but to pull yourself together and do as he and God expect you to do.

You cannot dwell on the past. You cannot torture yourself with things you wish you had done together, or things you might have said, or things you think might have hastened his death.

DON'T LOOK BACK

As difficult as it is, you must be grateful for the love you had until death parted you, remembering that there are others who have had less.

You can't look back. But in the early days of widowhood you can't look too far ahead at one time, either.

The unknown hurdles on the road ahead as well as the innumerable ones already in sight can seem overwhelming.

best you can do, one day at a time.

After talking with other widows during the past year, after my own experience, I am convinced that this is the only way to avoid serious emotional damage following the shock of death.

AN APPREHENSION

Now and then I had wondered vaguely how I would accept death should a tragedy strike a member of my family. This is a natural apprehension, I feel sure, for most people who have not yet encountered it.

As a five-year-old everything seemed good about death. My grandmother kissed me, pressed a quarter into my palm and a few hours later died of cancer. Everybody who had watched her suffer declared, "It was a blessing."

Yet when I was 12 my dearest girl friend, an only child, was struck down by a car on her way to my house. At the grave-site where I went as an honorary pall-bearer the anguished mother evoked terrifying shrieks, broke away from her husband and tried to throw herself into the grave onto the child's lowered casket. This memory never left me.

If such a thing as sudden death happened to me could I stand up through the strain?

FULL SHOCK IS DELAYED

When the end of my husband was inevitable, the doctor prescribed medication for me. My friends, worried, ever-watchful, stayed at my side throughout those early days and months.

"This is not happening to me. I'm someone else," is a strange, numbing feeling which carried me through the first hours and days. The full shock of realization does not occur at once, my doctor advised. Therefore, I dreaded the visits to the funeral home.

Now I know that I need not have. Not every one may react that way but to me the first view of my husband's body was an invaluable aid in bringing me out of my numbness and face to face with utter finality. I touched him. I brushed his hair onto his forehead. He did not feel like a human being and I knew that he was not there and never would be again.

A LONELY HOME

Sometimes the full realization does not come about until the out-of-town relatives have gone home again, leaving the house emptier than it ever was. During the day then it is possible to fall into the usual daily routine. But at night when no one comes home to dinner, when there is no one to recite the day's activities to, it is hardest.

This is the time to lose yourself in a television program, or bury yourself in a book with a deep plot, to engross yourself in some financial matters, to call a friend.

It is not a time to write sympathy cards or reminiscent letters to friends. Real friends can wait and they understand. Although it is good to accept the urgings of friends and go out with them, it is not advisable to go alone to movies, restaurants or anywhere there is a crowd at first... because lots of people belonging to one another salt the sores of new loneliness.

The next serious phase of grief may occur six months or so later, claims one physician who has guided a number of widows through these difficult times. Although some are able to keep a stiff upper lip by being occupied with the tasks of readjustment, the tasks finally run out. They simply get tired of being brave and strong, and let themselves go into a nervous breakdown.

The only safeguard against this danger is good health. To counteract the damage emotions can do physically a widow should remain under the vigil of her physician for at least a year.

It takes at least a year to recover even partially. There are holidays, birthdays, and the anniversaries full of memories which must be surmounted emotionally.

You can't forget the happy days, you never will. But you can, and must make more happy ones... alone, or with what remains of your family, to remember too, the next year.

Infirmly embarrasses groom's mother:

A serious operation a few months ago has left me very lame. My son will be married in a church wedding and, because of this condition, I simply cannot face coming down the aisle according to the usual procedure. I am self-conscious about it and will undoubtedly get over it in time, but am miserable worrying about this. Members of my family tell me that I must do it the correct way by going down the aisle just before the bride's mother. Must I? Could I break this rule and be the first one to arrive at the church?

Louise Davis answers:

Why, of course Louise Davis you don't have to go down that aisle at the "proper" time, under the circumstances. So put your good foot down and say no to your family unless you have overcome your embarrassment by the time your son is married. Here we have an exception and it is understandable and logical that you would want to veer from the usual procedure. A wedding is when all "are gathered here together" to witness the marriage vows of two people. It is of no special consequence as to how all gather, just so all are there, so any breaking of a general custom is of no significance, so how could one say that it is wrong, improper or offensive? What does it matter when you enter the church? Who could possibly criticize you and why? Let's throw procedure to the four winds in your case. Be the first in the church and I suggest that your husband or someone be with you so you won't be alone. Be the last ones out too. There is no reason for subjecting you to discomfort, pain, conspicuousness or unhappiness.

Vows Spoken at Chapel In Camp Chilliwack, B.C.

Of interest in Victoria is the wedding which took place in the chapel at Camp Chilliwack, B.C., of Margaret Anne Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Brown, of North Battleford, Sask., and Barry Douglas Blair, Royal Canadian Engineers, Camp Chilliwack, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Blair, of Guelph, Ont.

A gown of white peau de soie was worn by the bride, given in marriage by her father. Neckline was trimmed with applique and skirt swept into a semi-train. A sequin headpiece held her fingertip veil and she carried a white orchid mounted upon a white Bible.

Maid of honor, Miss Nancy Macmillan, Winnipeg, Man., wore a claret red gown of de-lustered satin styled on Empire lines. Her headpiece was of white feathers and she carried a colonial bouquet of white hyacinths and net.

Miss Dorothy Stephenson, Toronto, Ont., wore a similar gown in sapphire blue and little flower girl, Miss Aynsley MacQuarrie, Camp Chilliwack, wore a pale blue nylon frock and carried a nosegay of white hyacinths and carnations.

H. W. Bishop was best man and John Bates, Ken Brown and Norm Henderson were ushers. Reception for 200 guests was held at RCSME officers' mess, Camp Chilliwack. Mother of the bride wore a Dior blue silk dress with pale peach accessories for receiving guests. Mother of the groom wore a dress of charcoal blue lace with navy accessories. Both had gardenia corsages. Capt. E. W. MacQuarrie proposed the toast to the bride.

For a honeymoon in western Washington, the bride chose a Dior red brushed wool chemise suit with matching hat and black accessories. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The couple will live at Brandon, Man.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Stand Straight—You'll Look and Feel Better

Posture has such an amazing effect on the way we look and the impression we give others, to say nothing of its effect on our health! Good posture takes inches from your waist measurement, making your bust more prominent and your hips less prominent, improves your chinline, flattens your tummy and discourages a Dowager's Hump. It also gives you an air of self-confidence and poise and adds grace to your silhouette.

Good posture gives your heart and lungs more room in which to operate, is conducive to good elimination and deep breathing. It is restful whereas poor carriage places a strain on muscles and ligaments and often leads to backaches or fatigue.

Today I would like to give you three corrective exercises for the three most prevalent results of poor posture—the Dowager's Hump, sway back and round shoulders.

1. Dowager's Hump. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor at your sides. Bend your right knee up and grasp it with your hands, pulling it back close to your body. Hold your leg in this position while you roll your head back and lift your shoulders from the floor (head on the floor). Hold for a few seconds and return to starting position. Do the same thing with your left knee. Continue, alternating right and left. This is also a mild abdominal exercise.

2. Sway back. Lie on the floor on your back with your knees bent and your feet flat on the floor. Arms rest at your sides. Pull your abdominal muscles in hard. Flatten your mid-back against the floor. Hold for a few minutes and relax. Continue. See if you can touch your entire middle back to the floor. Also, when you are walking, remember to pull the hips under and keep the knees relaxed.

3. Round shoulders. Stand tall. Make large circles with your arms. Start with the arms overhead. Bring them side-ward-downward, pulling back as you do so. Cross the arms in front of the body and move them upward. Continue. Be sure to pull back as the arms move side-ward-downward. Lift the chin slightly while doing this exercise and keep the trunk erect.

RESCUE SPURRED

Trapped Boy Alive
On Canyon Ledge

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—A weak hand wave from a boy lying helpless on a ledge in a snowy canyon spurred efforts today to reach him while he is still alive.

Fourteen-year-old Donald Burns fell 300 feet into the steep-sided, 900-foot-deep canyon Wednesday while on a hike. Wednesday night there was a chilling fog, rain and snow.

This morning rescuers peering down from the lip of the canyon saw the lad wave feebly. This was the first sign of life they had seen since darkness set in, when he cried and waved. Four mountaineers descended the canyon slopes on ropes, while another team, using alpine gear, worked its way up from the bottom.

The canyon is at the 5,000-foot level on the 11,483-foot mount San Geronimo 35 miles east of here.

A sheriff's deputy who took part Wednesday night in the rescue attempt said Donald Burns was lying in a grotesque position, as though he had suffered bone fractures, when the officer spotted him with the aid of a portable searchlight. The boy's cries indicated that he had broken a leg.

Burns, of nearby Colton, was hiking with schoolmates Wednesday when he slipped on an icy trail at the top of big falls.

Rocket, H-Bomb
Claimed by U.K.

LONDON (CP)—The government announced today that Britain is developing a ballistic rocket "more advanced" than any the Americans now possess, and is designing it for launching from underground sites.

The government defence statement also said Britain now is making her own hydrogen bombs and is delivering them to the RAF.

In the annual defence report to Parliament, the government said Britain's strategic bomber force, equipped to carry these bombs, would provide a "mobile and flexible form of military power."

The white paper said the new rocket weapon "is being developed on the highest priority in close co-operation" with the United States.

No details of the new rocket were given, but the report said that "strategic rocket weapons of all ranges will in due course be made relatively invulnerable by sitting underground."

It added that the agreement whereby American intermediate-range ballistic missiles will be located in Britain "will be completed shortly."

Regarding the relative strength of the West compared with the Soviet Union, the document said: "Russia's successful launching of artificial satellites is evidence of her remarkable progress in rocket development. But it should not be thought that this has upset the balance of military power."

The national leader said he believes Social Credit has a "good chance" of increasing its 19 seats in Parliament.

He looks for increased representation in both B.C. and Alberta, where the party now holds all its seats, and hopes to crack into Manitoba and Saskatchewan for the first time.

Mr. Low indicated that Social Credit may field less than the 116 candidates across the country it had last June.

"We don't want to spread ourselves too thinly," he said.

Mr. Low admitted that Prime Minister Diefenbaker's election call, which he said was "ill-

Former Lumber
Firm Official
Gives Testimony

By JOHN MIKA, Times Staff Reporter

VANCOUVER—The former chief financial officer of B.C. Forest Products Ltd. testified today he refused to arrange for transfer of $30,000 to a "Wick Gray" to be paid "all or in part" to Robert E. Sommers in "such a way that it couldn't be traced."

The disclosure was made at the preliminary hearing here of conspiracy and bribery charges against former lands and forests minister Sommers and seven other defendants.

They are: C. D. Schultz and C. D. Schultz Co. Ltd., H. Wilson Gray and John M. Gray, B.C. Forest Products, Evergreen Lumber Sales Ltd., and Pacific Coast Services Ltd.

T. L. Daniels, chartered accountant who worked for BCFP between 1946 and December, 1954, said the proposal was made to him in 1953 by the late Hector G. Munro, previous president of the company.

The proposal was made shortly after Mr. Munro returned from a trip to Toronto. Mr. Daniels earlier said $2,500 in small bills had been paid to the "Mr. Gray" for travelling expenses of Mr. and Mrs. Sommers to Toronto.

"Shortly after his (Mr. Munro) return from Toronto, he called me to his room and told me arrangements had been made in Toronto to obtain a forest management licence."

"But the company would have to provide $30,000 to Mr. Wick Gray to be transferred all or in part to Mr. Sommers."

"He told me it was to be for travelling expenses for Mr. Sommers and his wife to be paid to Wick Gray, who was going east."

Mr. Daniels said he wanted Mr. Munro's signature on the voucher and that of another responsible officer of the company. Mr. Munro later signed the voucher.

"A few days later Mr. Munro came into my office and said Wick Gray was in his office and to give him the money, which I did."

Later he said that he subsequently learned Mr. Gray was connected with Pacific Coast Services.

When Mr. Munro returned from Toronto the voucher bore an additional signature of a man identified by Mr. Munro to Mr. Daniels as a vice-president of the firm with an office in Toronto.

Mr. Daniels testified he told Mr. Munro he believed that the "business of Pacific Coast Services was not on the level." He had also told the company president that the same "situation existed in the Schultz Company."

Both had been retained by B.C. Forest Products to prepare a management plan for the company's timber lands.

Low Predicts
New Stalemate

Likelihood of another national political stalemate after the March 31 general election was foreseen here today by Social Credit Leader Solon Low.

The province of Quebec holds the "key" to whether there will be a majority or minority government in Ottawa, Mr. Low said in an interview.

The national leader said he believes Social Credit has a "good chance" of increasing its 19 seats in Parliament.

Transfer That Couldn't Be Traced

"He wanted me to arrange for the money being transferred in such a way that it couldn't be traced. I told him it was a very foolish thing. I had a spat and left the room."

Shortly after, a $15,000 cheque was drawn for Pacific Coast Services, but Mr. Daniels said he could not remember whether an invoice relating to the transaction was received before or after the cheque was drawn.

A second cheque for $15,000 was drawn for PCS later. The money was charged to the engineering and cruising expense of BCFP's central logging division. This was followed by a contract under which BCFP was to pay PCS a $1,000 monthly retainer for certain services.

Mr. Daniels earlier said that on Oct. 29, 1953, Mr. Munro "asked me to draw a cheque for $2,500 in cash and to charge it to political donations."

"Some while after I handed him this cheque and he handed it back to me and asked me to cash it in small bills not over $50. I went down and if my memory is correct, I drew 50 $20 bills, and 30 $50 bills."

"I gave it to Mr. Munro, and he handed it back and told me to put it in my office safe. I asked him for what purpose the money was to be used."

Prosecutor Says Firms
Ignorant of Bribe Plot

VANCOUVER — A plot was hatched to bribe former lands and forests minister Robert Sommers although two lumber companies putting up the money didn't know about it, a preliminary hearing here was told Wednesday.

"That's what I'm going to try to show," prosecutor Stewart McMorran said during one of several battles with defence counsel as he tried to enter most of a scheduled 719 documents as evidence.

Only 52 of 410 documents filed the first day were admitted as exhibits by Magistrate Oscar Orr. The remainder stayed on the file for identification purposes only. Defence counsel objections to their admission indicated the prosecution will have to go all the way in proving their validity.

Arguments over relevancy of documents to the case and defence demands for more particulars in the six-count charge of conspiracy and bribery highlighted the opening session after defendants elected jury trials.

The charges arise out of alleged bribes made two years ago that were used to obtain forest management licences while Mr. Sommers was minister. The hearing will decide whether there is enough evidence to warrant a trial of the charges against:

Mr. Sommers, Social Credit MLA for Rossland-Trail; C. D. Schultz and C. D. Schultz Co. Ltd.; H. Wilson Gray and Pacific Coast Services Ltd.; John M. Gray and Evergreen Lumber Sales Ltd.; and B.C. Forest Products Ltd.

SNOWBALLS
FLORIDA TREAT FOR STUDENTS

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Three inches of snow blanketed Florida's capital, Tallahassee, today. The weather bureau called it possibly the heaviest in history.

Students of Florida State University broke from dormitories Wednesday night and began snowball fights, an experience completely strange to them.

The waning popularity of the government headed by Prime Minister Macmillan was pointed up sharply in the Lancashire textile city of Rochdale, Wednesday.

The Conservatives not only lost their grip on the district's House of Commons seat but ran a poor third to both the opposition Labor party and the normally weak Liberals.

Final returns from the voting gave Labor candidate Jack McCann 22,133 votes, Liberal Ludovic Kennedy 17,603, and Conservative John Parkinson 9,827.

Conservative leaders had been reconciled in advance to loss of the seat, but the magnitude of the defeat came as a surprise.

In a straight Conservative-Labor fight in the 1955 general election the Conservative candidate, who died recently, beat McCann 26,518 to 24,928.

The outcome was no great plum in the Labor party's pudding, since it too lost ground. Most of those who previously voted Conservative obviously switched to Kennedy, the Lib-

NORMAN CRIBBENS IN THE LEGISLATURE

Those of us who enjoy a drink and those who don't felt more than a twinge of sympathy with John Tisdalle, the gallant little man from Saanich, when he burst forth with a ringing denunciation of liquor behind the wheel.

"I am fed up," he cried, "with people who cherish human life so little that they think of their drink first and their driving second. Can you replace a human life with a bottle of Scotch?"

No doubt George Gregory, the conscientious Liberal member for Victoria, felt much the same as Mr. Tisdalle. But he could not resist the temptation to take a crack at Highways Minister Gagliardi who does not drink but sometimes displays a taste for speed.

"What about testing curves?" asked Mr. Gregory, alluding to the time Mr. Gagliardi made that his excuse for speeding on a provincial highway.

"I don't mind a fellow testing curves as long as he is sober," retorted Mr. Tisdalle, evoking a thunder of applause from the government benches and a wise, Pharaoh-like smile from Mr. Gagliardi.

And this brought us to the subject of vodka—the fiery Russian brew.

"It would be the worst thing for this province if vodka became a national drink," declared Mr. Tisdalle. "I am sure the Russians would like to export it to us so they could muddle the brains of the opposition."

Then, reverting to a more popular beverage, he said: "Whisky at the wheel is no better than a loose nut." (Loud laughter.)

Mr. Tisdalle had a glass of milk on his desk and he raised it in a toast to the Island dairy farmers who staged a demonstration in the legislature Monday.

He pleaded for a sympathetic attitude towards the farmers in their protest against the lower price differential paid to them.

"They did us no harm," he said. "I felt as much at home with them in this house as if they were my own family. Let's try and see things from their point of view."

When members of the Government are speaking, Premier Bennett looks around him with a challenging look that seems to say: "How can you doubt what these fine men—my boys—are telling you?"

And when he swivels his chair round to talk to immediate neighbors in the cabinet he wears the magnanimous expression of a father talking to his favorite sons.

To be truthful, there is no one quite like him in the British Commonwealth... or anywhere else.

By contrast with last Monday's carnival hostilities—the cow on the steps and angry farmers shouting in the lobby—the latter part of Wednesday's proceedings had the atmosphere of an afternoon in the card room of the Union Club.

Cedric Cox, the clear-spoken CCF member from Burnaby, twitted the government over its propaganda in the by-election which gave him the seat formerly held by his father-in-law, the late Ernest Winch.

"They had a Social Credit candidate on the air or on TV every day," he said. "Where does the money come from?"

"Where does it come from?" quipped Premier Bennett, his smile betraying the politician's thrust.

"From the people," answered CCF leader Bob Strachan, but the Premier didn't look convinced.

Earlier, the legislature heard defence and criticism of its correctional institutes.

Elmore Philpott Again Nominated

VANCOUVER (CP)—Elmore Philpott, Vancouver newspaper columnist and formerly Liberal member of parliament for Vancouver South, was nominated again for that constituency Wednesday night at an uncontested convention.

He was defeated last June by Conservative Ernie Broome after serving one term in the Commons.

pare an application for a forest management licence. The witness said he had "a terrible row" with the late Mr. Munro over the matter and had finally resigned his position effective Dec. 31, 1954.

Prior to leaving the firm, he had told Mr. Munro he would be willing to continue on in his job if Mr. Munro would cancel the contracts with Pacific Coast Service Limited and the Schultz Company.

But Mr. Munro had said "he couldn't do that; that he was committed to his course." He said the B.C. Forest Products Company president seemed to fear something.

Defence counsel objected strongly to this statement. But the witness was finally permitted to continue.

He added that Mr. Munro expressed "the view that life could be made difficult for him in operation of the (forestry management) licence if he didn't carry on with the present arrangements."

The testimony was entered under repeated objections by defence counsel. Prosecutor Stewart McMorran at one point interjected:

"Everyone's struggling to keep this out."

Magistrate Oscar Orr told defence counsel that he would have the testimony struck out of the record if it was not linked up to the charge. But he pointed out Mr. Munro was mentioned in the charge.

Wednesday he had identified eight similar cheques. The documents were entered as exhibits.

Prosecutor McMorran indicated at the start of today's session that he believed Mr. Sommers was required under the law to attend the preliminary hearing. Mr. Sommers Wednesday was excused so he could attend the current session of the Legislature. Magistrate Orr said he would hear arguments later today on the question.

Festival on World Scale to Put B.C. On World Culture Map; More Tourists

Vancouver is leaving no stone unturned in its efforts to gain a place on the world culture map this summer. Over 100 featured artists (including some of the world's most famous) and $400,000 will combine to put the first annual Vancouver Festival on a world scale.

Speaking to the Women's Canadian Club Wednesday, director of administration Peter Bennett, said: "It will be more on the lines of the famous Edinburgh Festival than the Stratford Festival, as it will include all the arts instead of just drama."

Because Vancouver is a crossroads of the world, the theme chosen for the festival which takes place July 19 to Aug. 16, will be "Comparing and Contrasting of Cultures of Europe, Asia and the Americas."

Giving a brief outline of the extensive program Mr. Bennett named the national dancers of Ceylon, French mime Marcelle Marceau, world famous conductor Bruno Walter and famous jazz leaders Dizzy Gillespie, Jack Teagarden and Oscar Peterson among the "big names" being imported for the festival.

Canadian artists also being given starring roles in the festival will include Glenn Gould, Lois Marshall, Maureen Forrester and Jon Vickers. Besides a series of concerts, recitals and plays there will be a production of the opera "Don Giovanni," a book display and an International Film Festival.

"A festival city must be beautiful, easily accessible and already established as a tourist centre," Mr. Bennett said. "It must be able to provide good holiday activities apart from the festival itself. It must have extensive tourist accommodation, and historic buildings."

He told the meeting that Vancouver has all these things plus another important factor: a university.

It was the success of UBC's summer school that encouraged formation of the Vancouver Festival committee. Benefits not only to Vancouver but also to the entire province will be great, Mr. Bennett believes.

In Stratford, Ont., the percentage of money circulating increased 90 per cent after the festival started," he said. "If people are going to travel to Vancouver for the festival, they will surely cross to Victoria and spend some of their money here."

Work has already begun on 1959 and 1960 Vancouver festivals and it is expected that entire productions from Eastern

POLITICAL SCENE

Canadian Women Present Poor Picture in 37 Years

MONTREAL (CT)—Canadian women have had the right to vote since 1921, but their record in political life has been undistinguished, says Hon. Ellen Fairclough, state secretary.

"Our contribution to political life in Canada cannot be compared with the part played by women in India, Israel and France," she told a group of university women this week.

"In the French Parliament, for example, although women only got the franchise in 1944, there were 23 women members in 1946."

Mrs. Fairclough's 1957 appointment as secretary of state in the federal cabinet made her the first woman cabinet member.

However, she said the reason for women's apparent laxity in public affairs might be partly found in the country's geography.

A woman taking up politics in Canada would have to leave off or neglect her home duties in order to be present in Parliament.

Many women—about 1,200 at present—were serving in municipal posts across the country, jobs they could fill without neglecting their home duties.

"Many women, of course, are working a full day outside their homes," said Mrs. Fairclough.

"About one person in every four in Canada's labor force is a woman, and about 40 per cent are married."

ON ELECTION FRONT

Four Leaders Swing Into Hot Campaign

By The Canadian Press

The campaign for the March 31 federal general election has moved from the training camps into the ring.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker Wednesday night in Winnipeg doffed his robe and swung his keynote punch at the Liberals.

Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson also set off on the campaign trail Wednesday night in search of his first mandate and promising a "good fight for we have something to fight for."

Mr. Pearson labelled his an "unemployment crash program," to reduce the number of jobs by priming the economic pump and pouring new spending power into consumers' pockets.

Social Credit Leader Solon Low (in Victoria today) viewed the campaign from Edmonton Wednesday night not so much as a fist-like affair as a "box social affair" with the Liberals and Tories competing only to see who can promise the most.

CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell was to leave by train from Ottawa tonight for Saskatchewan. He will make his initial big speech in his home constituency of Rosetown-Biggar Saturday.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions to Andy will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Tommy Girdler, aged 14, of Somerset, Kentucky, for his question:

What is a Salamander?

You might mistake a small, ugly, heat-enders, the mud puppy salamander for a lizard. But the lizard has a dry scaly skin and claws on his toes. The salamander has soft, clawless fingers on his feet and his moist skin rates as one of the wonders of nature. It is a breathing organ. What's more, most salamanders are able to breathe oxygen from either air or water.

Salamanders belong to the class Amphibia — the land and water dwellers. Their order is Caudata, the tailed ones. This order distinguishes them from the tailless amphibians — the frogs and toads. Maybe the salamander admires these cousins because they can croak and he has no voice at all. But the salamander has a quality which most animals could envy. He can regrow a lost tail or a whole leg.

The Crutata order includes the pretty newts and efts, the seen during broad daylight.

Most of the world's salamanders live in Northern America. We have some 125 varieties. The salamander's wonderful skin dictates where he must live, for it must be kept cool and moist. Hence we find him in and near ponds, lakes, streams and rivers. Some varieties live in damp woods and some live in the darkness of cool caves.

In character, the salamander is shy and timid. He avoids trouble by hiding and fleeing. Yet he is a meat eater. He feeds on insects, snails, worms, fish eggs and small fish. The newt is the gadabout of the family. He can endure sunshine and is seen during broad daylight.

Every salamander begins life as an egg, then goes through a larva stage. Some varieties never get beyond the larva stage. The common orange-colored newt lays her eggs in the water. The larvae have gills and stay in the water. The little fellow takes to the moist land when their gills are replaced by lungs. The red-brown dusky salamander lays her eggs in moist ground. When the youngsters are a few days old they make their way to the water.

Each type of salamander lives its own life story. However, all the larvae have gills and teeth. The mud puppy never loses his feathery gills. The newt replaces his baby gills with lungs. The arboreal salamander of the Pacific Coast has neither lungs nor gills. The egg is laid on or near the ground. The baby develops its legs before hatching. Throughout life, this salamander breathes air through his skin and through the skin of his mouth and throat.

The giant of the salamander clan lives in China and Japan. He is a huge fellow over five feet long. In captivity, this giant salamander has been known to live half a century.

The smallest salamander is a blond fellow, one inch long. He is a native of the moist spruce forests of the southeastern United States. The hellbender may be two feet long, the so-called Congo eel may be over a yard long. Most of the salamanders are charming, shy little creatures some three to six inches long.

Andy sends a Hammond's Ambassador World Atlas to Roberta Schupka, age 11, of North Madison, Ohio, for her question:

What is glaciology?

You need only a little detective work to solve the meaning of this word. The last part of it rhymes with biology and geology. It has the same meaning, which is the study of. What is glaciology the study of? The first part of the word spells out the answer.

Glaciology is the study of glaciers and such. It is a branch of geology, the study of the earth's rocks. And glaciers and other icy fingers have had a lot to do with the surface of the earth.

The glaciologist figures out the story of the bitter Ice Ages. He studies the ice and glaciers on the earth today. He is also interested in the effect that glaciers have on living things. He knows which plants and animals can survive in glacial conditions and which cannot.

All this study gives a total picture of glacial ice and what it does to the earth's rocks and living things. Right now, glaciologists are studying the ice cap at the South Pole in detail for the first time.

There is still a good supply of centennial silver dollars available through Victoria's banks, a survey showed today.

All that's needed to get a silver dollar is one dollar, cash. Allen Klenman, president of the Victoria Numismatic Association, said the coins were turning up in the ordinary day's run of cash at many city stores.

He said they are available from 12 banks.

The chief accountant at a downtown bank said there might be a run on the coins during the tourist season, but there are plenty on hand right now.

He said some firms were purchasing them in quantity for promotion use, but the general public should have no trouble acquiring them.

The B.C. centennial committee has reported a flood of letters from U.S. points, asking how to obtain the coins. Most are from coin collectors. One offered to pay up to $25 for a silver dollar.

In each case, the committee advises the enquirer to order the coins through their own banks.

The Canadian Mint turned out 100,000 of the centennial dollars to honor B.C.'s 100th birthday. Of these, about 80,000 were distributed throughout B.C.
